Equality Overdone.
Quarreling in a Storm.
Ford's Forty Years.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

FOURSCORE AND SEVEN years ago, our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Lincoln said it, dedicating the Gettysburg Cemetery, and for some it is proving uncomfortably true in this depression. Our self-acknowledged nobility has been that of money. Our recognized superiority, or inequality, is that of fortune. Men find themselves unpleasantly "equal" when their stock values and paper millions melt, and they walk on the heavy earth, instead of walking on air.

You may call up one once full of solemn advice, and all-knowledge, and hear a voice, broken, gloomy, asking:

"What do you hear?"

And you cannot reply:

"I hear that you are being 'put through the wringer.'"

IN A BAD storm at sea, hearing the captain quarreling with the first mate and the second mate calling the captain an inefficient fool, passengers would not be happy.

In the present economic storm, citizens, hearing the principal officials in their government belittling each other, feel none too cheerful. Men quarrel, when they can think of nothing useful to do. It is a sad, annoying thought, but the people of the United States may be compelled to take a real interest in their government, and do some thinking for themselves.

THE "BEST MINDS" of high finance, rather dazed, read Gov. Roosevelt's recent speeches about "the forgotten man" and the need of a new kind of government system. They asked:

"Am I dreaming? Is someone really suggesting that ours is not the ultimate and absolutely perfect government? Is it possible that we might have a radical President?"

THOSE BEST minds will be more puzzled when they learn that the Middle West and Far West, the farmers tired of wheat selling for thirty cents on the farm, the workers idle, or with pay cut, call Gov. Roosevelt "too old-fashioned and conservative" and demand some "plain speaking."

Millions of Americans were as conservative as so many bread puddings while the car, radio, washing machine and bungalow installments were all paid up. But that has changed . . . changed, and 1932 edition of a Karl Marx might sell many copies, if the dissatisfied had money to buy them, in spite of the fact that they would not generally understand Marx any more than he would understand them.

It will all pass, like a dream about falling out of a tree. We shall all climb back into the prosperity tree again. But how we hate that falling sensation.

HENRY FORD has published, widely, the first of three articles on unemployment, a problem that he divides into three sections, KEEPING EMPLOYMENT AT THE MAXIMUM, SELF-HELP AND CHARITY.

Charity, Mr. Ford describes well, in one word "barbarous." And adds:

"I think it a shameful thing that any man should have to stoop to take it, or give it."

The charity of our cities, says Mr. Ford, "is the most barbarous thing in our system, with the possible exception of our prisons."

MORE INTERESTING and encouraging, for every American with any ambition, is Mr. Ford's casual remark:

"For the first forty years of my life I was an employe. When I was not employed by others, I employed myself. I found very early that being out of hire was not necessarily being out of work."

Ford was always thinking, planning, trying.

A YOUNG lieutenant stepped from the ranks and complained to Napoleon:

"I have been six years a lieutenant. There seems to be no chance of advancement."

Napoleon replied:

"I was, myself seven years a lieutenant, yet, you see, I have arrived."

Ford also arrived, after living forty years, employed by other men, often at work and wages that many of our modern unemployed young gentlemen would scorn.

The lowest point of Ford employment at Dearborn, in the depression, was forty thousand men, not bad, for one who never hired any one until he was forty. And not one of the forty thousand, or the greater number now employed, gets less than six dollars a day.

Contrast that condition with the speech in which an early president of this republic complained that you could no longer hire a good American worker for less than one hundred dollars a year.

Things might be worse.

GOOD TIMES will come back. Thinking, planning and working will bring them back. Complaining will help nothing, although there will be plenty of it. Nobody is responsible for conditions, although general foolishness, recklessness and self-complacency are largely responsible.

The world is paying for the great war, and this nation, as usual, is the chief paymaster.

AUDIT BARES ROAD WORK FOR CLUBS

Probe Charge County 'Gave' Clairton $60,000 Highway; McGovern Fight Recalled

Charges that the county materials, equipment and labor were used in constructing private roads for the Westmoreland and Oakmont Country Clubs will be contained in the next report of the audit of county affairs now being made by Main and Company, a county official said today.

Another charge — that the county built roads costing $60,000 in Clairton without cost to that city—also are being investigated by the auditors, it was disclosed.

2 CLUBS INVOLVED

All of the work, it is charged, occurred during the Armstrong-Babcock-McGovern county administration.

The county official said that the audit report will charge approximately $10,000 was spent on road building and other improvements at Westmoreland, less at Oakmont.

When informed of the reported change, officials of the Westmoreland Club issued the following statement:

"A similar charge was made several years ago in connection with this road matter. At that time hearings were held and testimony taken before the County Commissioners. The testimony showed that the charge was unfounded."

Records show that County Commissioner C. C. McGovern, while serving as county controller, took part in the investigation referred to by the Westmoreland club officials and on December 18, 1927, said:

"I am positive that the county made some improvements on the club property. There is no reason why the county should not be paid."

SURCHARGE FAILED

Subsequent investigation, however, apparently failed to supply facts to substantiate his belief, for a $10,000 surcharge which he threatened to make against the club, did not materialize.

Emil Loeffler, golf professional and superintendent of maintenance at the Oakmont Club, who said any road improvements would come under his jurisdiction, said this afternoon:

"The only road that has been built into the Oakmont Country Club was constructed by the club itself and the Fort Pitt Construction Company."

TROOPERS ON GUARD IN FOOD ROW

Truce Reached in Dispute Over Distribution of Aid To New Kensington Needy

While five state troopers guarded against a repetition of last Friday's outbreak, when 500 persons stormed the relief headquarters, a truce was established in the New Kensington municipal building today in the controversy over supplying aid to the community's 1,200 destitute families.

At the conclusion of a conference, attended by representatives of the New Kensington Community Welfare group, members of Council and Sheriff William Humes, of Westmoreland County, Edward Klingensmith, a member of the County Poor Board announced that a plan acceptable to both the Poor Board and the welfare workers had been adopted. He said:

"We agreed that all relief orders will be written on the community welfare store of New Kensington. Each order will be itemized by the welfare committee and sworn to each month. We will give orders of $6, $8 and $10 monthly, according to the size of the family.

"The welfare committee contends it can make the money last longer through its purchase at wholesale prices. I agreed with them and they have promised to retract charges that the Poor Board was distributing orders to out of town merchants and to persons outside of the district."

The trouble Friday climaxed the dispute over distribution of the northern end of the county's share of Westmoreland's quota of $281,000 under the Talbot state relief act.

H. M. Cribbs, secretary to Klingensmith, who was ill, Friday, took over the giving out of relief orders to various New Kensington merchants. The crowd stormed the Welfare headquarters where Cribbs was in charge, demanding that the Welfare committee take charge of the relief work, police reported.

Dr. J. M. Steim is chairman of the executive committee of the welfare community group.

PRESIDENT DEMANDS IMMEDIATE ACTION TO BALANCE BUDGET

In a dramatic personal plea to the Senate today for speedy enactment of a tax bill that will balance the budget, President Hoover advocated the limited sales tax. Within a half hour, however, the proposal was voted down by the Senate Finance Committee.

The President's address came after the Senate had voted to increase income taxes.

A short time before, Speaker Garner appeared personally before a House committee to urge enactment of his $2,309,000,000 relief bill.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP.)—A broadening of the special sales taxes proposed in the revenue bill, but without resort to a general tax on all sales, was urged on the Senate today by President Hoover.

Speaking in the Senate chamber in an atmosphere vibrant with presence of vast public uncertainties, Mr. Hoover declared an "emergency" demanded quick action.

He spoke of the depletion of gold reserves, and of apprehension at home and abroad that the government might not be able to balance its budget and meet its obligations. He said:

"In order to solve the problem and show that we are ready to meet our obligations, I have come to favor a more general manufacturers' excise tax."

SURPRISE MOVE—

The President's appearance before the Senate was a surprise move for action, after several days and nights of conferences with congressional leaders.

He prepared his address hastily, arrived at the Capitol a few minutes after noon, was ushered hurriedly into the Senate chamber and, amid a vast silence, spoke his appeal in a voice so quite that it failed to carry into the far corners of the gallery.

On the way along Pennsylvania avenue his motor car passed by special police details assembled because of reports of an impending Communist demonstration. The journey was made without incident.

As he returned to the White House, the Senate Finance Committee went into special session to consider new amendments to the revenue bill, and the Senate itself prepared to vote on the proposal for a general sales tax.

Within a half hour after the President indorsed the special manufacturers sales tax, its finance committee again rejected this disputed levy. The vote was 12 to 8.

The committee then approved a cent a gallon tax on gasoline es-

Garner Makes Personal Plea For Relief Plan

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP.)—Appearing in the unusual role of witness, Speaker Garner today urged the House Ways and Means Committee to report legislation for direct relief "of the starving and suffering people in this country."

He was the first witness on his $2,309,000,000 relief measure, but he explained he preferred to leave to others discussion of the merits of his bill.

SETS PRECEDENT

It was the first time in the memory of the oldest representatives that a Speaker had forsaken the presiding officer's dias for the witness chair before a committee.

Speaking in a quiet voice, Garner said reports from all over the country indicated a large number of persons faced starvation unless relief were afforded.

The committee room was crowded with spectators who came to see what the red-faced, white-haired Texan looked like.

FIVE IN FAMILY HURT BY BOMB

AVELLA, Pa., May 31.—Heavy mattresses, on which they were sleeping, are credited with saving the lives of Thomas Nichols, miner, his wife and three children, early today, when a dynamite bomb, placed under their first-floor bedroom, exploded with such force that the bed posts were carried through the ceiling.

Nicholas, his wife, Eva, 26, and their children, were badly bruised and shocked, and the house, a two-story frame, was damaged $1,500.

Nichols, working at the P. & W. mine, of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, was one of 150 signers to a petition to Gov. Pinchot recently asking state police protection at Avella, as a result of the miners' strike.

He had been threatened several times recently, Washington County authorities said they learned. Sheriff J. A. Seaman is investigating.

Man Dies by Gas, Blast Wrecks Home

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—(AP.)—In killing himself with gas last night, Jacob Weller, 71-year-old church janitor, blew up his house, damaged two others and injured four men.

Weller was found dead, clutching a picture of his wife, in the kitchen of his home. The gas jets in the stove were open. The explosion occurred when a son, Joseph, turned on an electric light to see what had happened.

One Injured, Others Periled as Roof, Balcony Fall

By CHARLES A. EARLEY
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 31.—The State Theater, Washington's de luxe motion picture theater, was in ruins today following an early morning blaze of undetermined origin. The damage was estimated at between $300,000 and $350,000 by M. M. Wear, theater manager.

One man was injured and several others narrowly escaped injury when the balcony and roof of the building collapsed. Fire walls prevented the spread of the flames to adjoining buildings.

The injured man was George Burns, 21, of South Franklin street. He was cut by glass when he broke a glass door to permit him and his companions, J. A. Scott, of West Chestnut street, Frank Dunn, of 215 West Main street, and John Golden, 25, of East Prospect avenue, to enter the flaming building.

The quartet, passing the theater, detected the smell of smoke and discovered the fire.

The theater was erected 10 years ago by the Harris Theater interests of Pittsburgh and later sold to the Warner Brothers. Plans for its reconstruction will probably be considered today at a conference Manager Wear plans with John Harris, vice president of the Warner interests in Western Pennsylvania.

CITY FURLOUGH FIGHT FLARES

The controversy over the furlough plan of saving city money flared anew today as Budget Director R. J. Alderdice assailed by Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh for "passing the buck," announced he would lay the entire furlough situation before Council.

Alderdice's announcement came after Walsh had made public a list of 263 policemen and firmen to begin a month's furlough tomorrow, in accordance with the plan heretofore followed for keeping within the budget.

Walsh, denying a statement attributed to Alderdice that the police and fire bureaus had not started furloughing on time, asserted:

"I carried out the wishes of the Mayor and put these men on a month's furlough. If Mr. Alderdice is correctly quoted in stating we did not comply, he is passing the buck."

Alderdice came back with the declaration that Walsh was furloughing men who should have been placed on the pension roll in January in accordance with Council's action in reducing the number of police from 1,037 to 895 and firemen from 834 to 736, a reduction in jobs of 260.

Instead of dropping anyone, the furlough system was instituted, each police and fireman taking a month's vacation without pay. One object was to avoid a heavy drain on the police and fire pension funds by forced retirement of so large a number at one time.

Alderdice today reiterated his statement that the furlough plan had resulted in saving $192,000 to the city for the first four months of this year, instead of $277,000 anticipated.

Charges that city bureaus were cheating on the furlough had been made previously by representatives of civic bodies.

Text of Hoover Message On Need for More Taxes

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(INS.)—The text of President Hoover's message to the Senate today follows:

"An emergency has developed in the last few days which it is my duty to lay before the Senate.

"The continued downward movement in the economic life of the country has been particularly accelerated during the past few days and it relates in part definitely to the financial program of the government. There can be no doubt that superimposed upon other causes the long-continued delays in the passage of legislation providing for such reduction in expenses and such addition to revenues as would balance the budget, together with proposals of projects which would greatly increase governmental expenditures, have given rise to doubt and anxiety as to the ability of our government to meet its responsibilities.

"These fears and doubts have been foolishly exaggerated in foreign countries, and within the past few days, despite our national wealth and resources and our unparalleled gold reserves, our dollar stands today at a serious discount in the markets of the world for the first time in a half century. They know from bitter experisick since he collapsed in January, resumed the gavel, replacing Acting Chairman Crisp.

Speaking in a quiet tone, Garner demanded that the committee report favorably a bill providing for direct relief to aid the starving and suffering people in this country."

The Texan told the 15 Democrats and 10 Republicans on the committee that the question before them was:

"Is it the duty of Congress to take note of the condition of the people and pass legislation to give the starving and suffering relief?"

TESTIMONY PROMISED

Explaining that he was leaving testimony on the merits of his $2,300,000,000 relief program to members of House committees handling various sections of the legislation, Garner said he desired to discuss the policy of the proposed legislation only. Garner said:

"I think it safe to say that it is known by almost all men that in the state of affairs in this country at the present time men and women are suffering for want of food."

He read a statement inserted into the Congressional Record by Senator Jones, Rep., of Washington, received from an employment committee at Tacoma which said "the unemployed here are on the verge of starvation."

It urged the Senator to drop all legislation to sponsor measures for direct relief.

Garner said that such information came from all sections of the country and from every congressional district. He added that his district in South Texas probably was as little economically affected as any in the United States, but that even in some parts of it there was concern over whether local charity organizations could meet the situation.

UP TO MEMBERS

Garner said that in determining its policy on his legislation providing $100,000,000 for direct relief, it was up to individual members of the committee to say to the country whether the federal government should give relief to those in distressed circumstances. He said:

"It is up to you to determine whether this Congress shall decline to pass legislation to meet the situation or whether under the constitution you feel the Federal government is unable to render aid.

STARVING PEOPLE

"Admitting the premises that there are starving and suffering people, you are somewhat foreclosed either to favor the legislation or disapprove it on constitutional grounds."

Garner said he had reports from the Red Cross, the Salvation Army, the American Federation of Labor and other organizations that many people are suffering for "want of food and raiment."

At the outset of the hearing, Garner leaned on the witness stand and explained why he took the unusual action of appearing before a committee, even though "peaked."

He said he had been invited by the chairman to make an explanation in support of his program. Garner said:

"When a witness appears before a committee he usually states who he is representing. I hope I represent the people of the United States. That is my purpose in appearing here."

WORK OF MANY

Garner said his entire program was not a quickly-drawn up proposal and claimed no authorship of its various sections except the one broadening the base of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to give it almost unlimited authority in transacting its business.

He said the proposal for $100,000,000 for direct relief had been made by Representative Huddleston (Dem.) of Alabama, the public building program had been suggested by Representative Crisp (Dem.) of Georgia, the rivers and harbors improvement section had been sponsored by Senator Shipstead, (Farmer Labor) of Minnesota, and Chairman Mansfield of the House Rivers and Harbors Committee, the Flood Control Committee had unanimously reported the project for the improvement of the Mississippi River and that the entire House through the Roads Committee had sponsored the provisions calling for the improvement of highways.

SEES 'EFFRONTERY'

Garner described as "effrontery" criticisms of his relief bill under which he said the huge public building program he suggests could be gotten underway within 90 days.

In 1928 he testified, President Hoover "after the election authorized a statement to the effect that he believed it good public policy and good statesmanship for the government to arrange a $3,000,000,000 building program and keep it in reserve for times of stress."

Then Garner asked:

"If that was the belief of the chief executive in 1928, when he was President-elect, I want to know how you or any others could have the effrontery to question patriotism and charge 'pork-barrel' tactics when people advocate the same thing in 1932?"

Garner said he does not "want to appropriate or authorize a single dollar that isn't based on good common sense." He added:

"I don't want to waste a single red penny. I just ask that if you find items in this bill worthy of construction some time in the future you accelerate that work to help unemployment now."

The major provisions of the bill are:

Increase in capital of Reconstruction Finance Corporation from two to three billions—$1,000,000,000.

Public building and waterway improvement, $1,209,084,337.

Fund for direct relief to distressed, $100,000,000.

HELD IN SEQUEL TO DEATH PLOT

Harry Fox, 21, occupant of a houseboat at the foot of Pennsylvania avenue, today was held in connection with an alleged attempt to have Mrs. Edith Laxton of 1332 West North avenue repudiate her statement concerning an alleged death plot against Detective Sergt. John Rhail. He was held for court, charged with entering a building, assault and battery and intimidating a witness.

Robert Swain, former county employe, held in $10,000 bail, was arrested after Mrs. Laxton told detectives Swain had asked her brother, Oliver Basher, to kill Rhail. He also asked her to throw acid in Rhail's face, Mrs. Laxton said. The alleged plot was blamed on a grudge Swain was said to have held against Rhail because the policeman obtained the indictment of Swain's son in a holdup.

VETS SUPPORT MACARTHUR

The 111th Infantry Veterans' Association today made a formal protest against a petition circulated among University of Pittsburgh students asking that Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Chief-of-Staff of the United States Army, be eliminated as a commencement day speaker because he is a militarist. The petition said in part:

"Whereas, Pitt University should remember and feel proud of her sons who have paid the supreme sacrifice on the altar of patriotism;

"Therefore be it resolved, that this organization, composed entirely of veterans of the World War, had as their comrades many men whose Alma Mater was Pitt and in all fairness and justice to them and the right of our country to prepare itself in defense, we do not believe this is the true sentiment of Pitt University, we condemn this movement as one based on prejudice, unpatriotic and unfair against this (military) profession and earnestly request that the students of Pitt repudiate this petition being circulated, thereby keeping the good name of Pitt and, incidentally, our city from severe criticism."

HOOVER URGES SALES TAX IN SPEECH

Senate Votes Increase in Income Levies; Big Sum Needed, Mills Reveals

timated to yield $150,000,000 of the $715,000,000 it was seeking.

Spurred to his extraordinary step by the situation facing the country and the government, President Hoover told the Senate:

"There can be no doubt that long continued delay in enactment in legislation to reduce expenditures and provide revenue has given rise to anxiety in abilities of government to meet its duty.

"These fears and doubts have had an influence in foreign countries.

"They know by experience the force of an unbalanced budget. They do not realize that as slow as the processes may be, we are determined to place the finances of the government on a firm basis."

The legislators hung on the President's every word, in an atmosphere that was markedly subdued in contrast with the stormy days of debate of late. Only a while before the Senate had evinced a determination to raise adequate taxes, this time by stepping up income levies to the 1921 level.

In days just gone, President Hoover emphasized, American gold reserves had depreciated and the dollar was discounted abroad. He said:

"This must be stopped or there will be great losses to the people of the United States and still further retard recovery."

The gravity with which Mr. Hoover approached his subject was shown in the low tones with which he spoke. Those in the galleries had difficulty in hearing him. He was dressed in formal morning attire.

A special reading platform was set up at the reading clerk's desk immediately in front of the Vice President, upon which Mr. Hoover rested his typewritten message. He read his words slowly. He said:

"No one has a more sympathetic understanding than I of the difficulties with which Congress is confronted."

The situation, he said, "calls for further sacrifices," and "the time has come for us to make sacrifices by expeditious action. The President continued:

"I have felt that in this distress that a grave responsibility rests on me. I am addressing the Senate because of the three major problems confronting us. These are:

"First, a reduction in government expenses.

"Second, passage of revenue legislation that will declare to the world the balancing of the federal budget and the stabilization of the American dollar."

The third point, he said, was adequate relief measures for the destitute.

MANUFACTURERS' TAX

Shortly thereafter, the President told the Senators he would support a special manufacturers' sales tax.

He did not favor a general sales levy, but said he was ready to support a sales tax along the lines recommended to the House and now before the Senate, limited to special manufatcured commodities.

He spoke of the special manufacturers excise taxes now before the bill as part discriminatory. He said:

"We must face the situation as it exists today."

He called for economies totalling $400,000,000.

The President's decision to appear before the Senate was reached as Secretary Mills presented the case for $285,000,000 in additional revenue to the Finance Committee in a hurriedly-called secret session.

Even before Mills concluded, the Senate overwhelmingly voted into the revenue bill a new increase in income tax rates, adding between $70,000,000 and $100,000,000 to the measure.

MILLS FOR SALES TAX

Desperately reaching out for new sources of revenue, Mills came out flatly for the sales tax as an alternative to a gasoline tax and lower exemptions on amusement taxes.

The message today is the first that President Hoover has delivered in person to Congress since his election.

At the White House, no one could recall another communication by other Presidents under similar circumstances. Harding, Wilson and Coolidge delivered messages to Congress in person, but the fact they would do so was known several days in advance.

The income tax rates voted today by the Senate are the highest since the close of the war. In addition to applying normal rates of 4 per cent to the first $4,000 and 8 per cent to income above $4,000, the schedule eliminates the allowance in the law for an earned income deduction.

INCOME SHRINKAGE

Shrinkage in income was blamed by Mills in his committee testimony for the failure of the original estimates to meet demands of the Treasury. He originally had estimated the bill would raise $953,000,000 instead of the $840,000,000 he estimated today.

While Mills argued with the Military Affairs Committee room—scene of the war-time legislative battles—an uproar of debate on the new turn of affairs swept the chamber, a few steps away.

Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, told the Senate it need not be surprised because Secretary Mills had been "openly for the sales tax for some time." Borah said:

"The only reason he didn't recommend it in the beginning was because he did not think it was practical at that time to secure its adoption."

This was the first time the administration had recommended the sales tax which is still to be voted upon in the Senate, but against which 55 members were pledged yesterday.

ence that the course of unbalanced budgets is the road of ruin. They do not realize that, slow as our processes may be, we are determined and have the resources to place the finances of the United States on an unassailable basis.

UNJUSTIFIED RUN

"The immediate result has been to create an entirely unjustified run upon the American dollar from foreign countries and today despite our national wealth and resources and unparalleled gold reserves, our dollar stands at a discount in the markets of the world. This can be and must be immediately corrected or the reaction upon our economic situation will be such as to cause great losses to our people and will still further retard recovery. Nor is the confusion in public mind and the rising feeling of doubt and fear confined to foreign countries. It reflects itself directly in diminished economic activity and increased unemployment within our own borders and among our own citizens. There is thus further stress upon already diminished and strained economic life of the country.

"No one has a more sympathetic realization than I of the difficulties and complexities of the problem with which the Congress is confronted—the decrease in revenues due to the depression by upwards of $1,700,000,000 and the consequent necessity to reduce government expenditures, the sacrifice such reduction calls for from many groups and sections, the further sacrifice called for in the distribution of the remaining burden by the imposition of new taxes—all constitute a problem which naturally arouses wide divergence of sectional interest and personal views. Yet if we are to secure a just distribution of these sacrifices in such fashion as to establish confidence in the integrity of the government, we must secure an adjustment of these views to quick and prompt national action, directed at one sole purpose: that is, to unfetter the rehabilitation of industry, agriculture and unemployment. The time has come when we must all make sacrifice of some parts of our particular views and bring these dangers and degenerations to halt by expeditious action.

METHODS CONSIDERED

"In the stress of this emergency I have conferred with members of both parties of the Senate as to methods by which the strains and stresses could be overcome and the gigantic resources and energies of our people released from the fetters in which they are held. I have felt in the stress of this emergency a grave responsibility rests upon me not only to present the situation to the Senate but to make suggestions as to the basis of adjustment between these views which I hope will lead to early action. And I am addressing myself to the Senate on this occasion, as the major questions under consideration are now before this body.

"We have three major duties in legislation in order to accomplish our fundamental purposes.

"1—Drastic reduction of expenditures.

"2—Passage of adequate revenue legislation, the combination of which with reductions will unquestionably behond all manner of doubt declare to the world the balancing of the federal budget and the stabilizing of the American dollar.

"3—Passage of adequate relief legislation to assure the country against distress and to aid in employment pending the next session of Congress.

"It is essential that when we ask our citizens to undertake the burdens of increased taxation we must give to them evidence of reduction of every expenditure not absolutely vital to the immediate conduct of the government. The executive budget of last December provided for a reduction of expenditures in the next fiscal year over the then estimated expenditures of the current yar by about $370,000,000. I have recommended to the Congress from time to time the necessity for passage of legislation which would give authority for further important reductions in expenditures not possible for consideration by either the executive or the committees of Congress without such legislation.

THIRD ON TRIAL IN KIDNAPING OF NILES BOY

Action Against Suspect in De Jute Case Speeded; Lindy Slayer Hunt Pushed

WARREN, O., May 31.—(AP.)—Unexpectedly moving the docket up a day, Trumbull County authorities today brought Anthony Lauri, of Youngstown, to trial for the kidnaping of 11 year-old James DeJute, Jr.

He is charged specifically with kidnaping with attempt to extort, and in this case a crime punishable by life imprisonment.

Lauri was captured in Weirton, W. Va., several weeks ago by a Trumbull County detective. Previously, two other men were brought to trial and convicted in the case.

Young DeJute, son of a Niles contractor, was held captive three days, but his release was effected by officers who found him hidden with two captors in an old abandoned rambling house near here. He was kidnaped three days after Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was abducted.

In Niles yesterday, young DeJute turned the first spadeful of dirt as a weeping willow tree was dedicated to the memory of the Lindbergh baby.

Condemned to death for slaying a street car motorman in a holdup, young Russell McWilliams again will face Circuit Judge Arthur E. Fisher, who pronounced the sentence upon him.

The State Board of Pardons and Paroles and Gov. Louis L. Emmerson both had refused to intervene despite the pleas of such humanitarians as the noted lawyer, Clarence Darrow, and the late Miss Julia Lathtop, noted social worker.

The State Supreme Court finally reversed the lower court and remanded the case back for a rehearing. Judge Fisher was criticized for refusing to hear testimony in mitigation of the offense.

William Holly, veteran Chicago lawyer and former associate of Darrow, will assist B. Jay Knight, young McWilliams' defense.

States Attorney William Knight said he again would ask the death penalty.

Slaying After Rum Party Stirs London Mayfair

LONDON, May 31.—A cocktail party in the fashionable apartment of Mrs. Elvira Dolors Barney, wife of an American singer and daughter of an English knight, ended today in the mysterious death from bullet wounds of Michael Stevenson, wealthy young Irishman.

Mrs. Barney, whose husband is John Sterling Barney, was taken to Scotland Yard for questioning. After making a full statement to police, Mrs. Barney was permitted to return to her parents' home in Belgrave square, Mayfair.

Barney is said to be a native of Kalamazoo, Mich. His father was one of Theodore Roosevelt's rough riders in the Spanish-American War. Barney was reported in New York recently.

Mrs. Barney and her husband, member of a cabaret turn known as "The Three New Yorkers," separated some time ago, according to reports here. He is now believed to be in the United States.

According to the evidence thus far obtained, 26 men and women attended the cocktail party, which began about 4:30 p. m. yesterday.

Almost 12 hours later, after Stevenson had left the apartment with some of the other guests only to return again, nearby residents heard four shots fired in quick succession. While the unfamiliar echoes of the fusillade were still ringing through fashionable Knightsbridge, where the apartment is situated, a woman was heard to cry out:

"Oh, Chicken, Chicken! Come back, darling. I am sorry, darling. Come back, Michael!"

When police rushed in they found Stevenson mortally wounded.

It was understood the question of the best time to hold such a meeting was not gone into by Mellon and Sir John.

BRUENING OUSTED, HINDENBURG GUIDES GERMANY IN CRISIS

HITLER PARLEY HELD LIKELY IN BERLIN

Power of Fascists Grows; President Seeks Cabinet Excluding Rival Members

By EDWARD L. DEUSS
International News Service.

BERLIN, May 31.—Still the powerful leader he was as commander of the great German Army during the World War, President Paul von Hindenburg, 85, today assumed supreme control of the German nation and struggled single-handedly to guide it out of its present grave crisis.

It was a crisis created by the aged soldier-statesman himself by yesterday forcing the resignation of his long-trusted chancellor, Heinrich Bruening, and yet a crisis which Hindenburg foresaw and deemed himself completely capable of handling.

MAY CALL HITLER

Informative conference with the leaders of the various political parties, begun yesterday, continued today. It was possible Adolf Hitler, Fascist leader, who in one sense brought about Bruening's downfall, would be called in again.

Hindenburg's problem was to find a new government, but it was certain to be one without Fascist representation, although Hindenburg's aim in ousting Bruening was to get a government of greater Rightist proportions.

The Fascists, who claim entire credit for Bruening's resignation, have made it clear they will not participate in any government in which they do not have a majority, and they are holding out for elections believed certain to be held soon, perhaps within six weeks.

VON PAPEN MENTIONED

Franz von Papen, formerly German military attache at Washington, who was recalled to Berlin in 1916 when the United States government accused him of violating the American neutrality law, was named today as the most likely successor to Bruening.

Van Papen and Commander Karl Boy-Ed, naval attache at the German embassy in Washington, were accused of attempting to foment strikes in factories manufacturing munitions for the Allies and of other improper activities in the United States.

PROBE MYSTERY WIFE OF CURTIS, DEATH OF PAIR PUBLISHER, DIES

ALTON BAY, N. H., May 31.—(INS.)—As a double autopsy was performed yesterday on the bodies of a young man and a young woman found on a couch in a summer cap at Place's Pond, authorities weighed three theories—a suicide pact, murder and suicide, and double murder.

The young woman's body was identified as that of Miss Helen R. Luscomb, 25, of South Lawrence, Mass., and the man's body as that of William P. Foster, 34, of Andover, Mass., married and the father of three children.

Dr. R. L. Brown, of Laconia, medical referee, and Dr. Charles Duncan, of Concord, head of the State Board of Health, conducted the autopsy.

The young woman had been shot but no pistol was found. Apparently Foster had not been shot. Two "suicide" notes were found but, because there seemed to me three different kinds of handwriting, authorities suspected for a time a murderer forged the notes. The couple had been dead two or three weeks.

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—(INS.)—Mrs. Cyrus H. K. Curtis, wife of the famed publisher and philanthropist, died suddenly today in Jefferson Hospital of a heart attack.

She had gone to the hospital to be near her husband, who is undergoing treatment there, and was sleeping not far from him when the end came.

The official announcement from the family disclosed she had been suffering from heart trouble for some time, but had apparently been in good spirits and was planning to go to the Curtis summer home, Lyndewood, in Camden, Me., for the summer.

Curtis, according to a report prevalent here, had been ill for the past few days and was taken from his yacht, Lyndonia, while cruising in eastern waters last week to his home and then to a hospital.

Although the nature of Curtis' indisposition was not revealed, Dr. Martin E. Rehfuss, personal physician to the family, said it was serious.

Attaches of the family said Curtis has not been informed of his wife's death because of his condition and his advanced age. He is 82.

Takes Truck to Dash To Ill Mother; Held

Borrowing, according to police, a five-ton truck and trailer to hurry to the bedside of his mother, who is ill, John Daniher, 21, of 3513 Bigelow boulevard, was being held today in Central Police Station on a suspicious person charge.

The truck was loaded with 900 tires valued at $15,000, owners of the truck, the G. A. Patten Auto Trucking Company, of Akron, O., reported to police. They said it was taken from the Pittsburgh branch office, 500 River avenue. Fifty minutes later Daniher was arrested in the truck at Seventh avenue and Grant streets.

AMELIA GUEST IN COMMONS

LONDON, May 31.—(AP.)—Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam, first woman solo flier of the Atlantic, was guest yesterday at a hastily arranged tea party in the House of Commons.

She was taken to the house by David K. E. Bruce, son-in-law of Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon. On her appearance the tea party was arranged and nearly all the women members of Parliament, including the American-born Lady Astor, were present. Another who was present was J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions.

Mrs. Putnam still was bothered by a cold, which, coupled with the many speeches she has been called upon to make since her flight from America, had almost robbed her of her voice.

Lady Astor will introduce Mrs. Putnam to George Bernard Shaw, the noted playwright, on Thursday.

FLEEING MOVIE BANDIT CAUGHT

A 17-year-old youth, Angelo DeRenzo, admitted in Morals Court today he had tried to hold up the office of the Warner Theater last night, firing one shot which startled a holiday crowd during the late showing "State's Attorney."

The youth was captured after a five-block chase by Alexis Barrie, of 47 Elwood street, teacher in Wilkinsburg High School, who grappled with the fleeing, armed suspect at Grant street and Sixth avenue. The youth said he pointed his revolver and pulled the trigger, but it failed to fire.

Today the youth testified he had come here from Youngstown, O., 10 days ago, that he had obtained his revolver from a boy in Soho. He was held over.

Charles Murray, assistant manager, and Leroy Carney, of 204 Bertha street, an usher, were held up by DeRenzo, they testified, at the office entrance. They slammed the door and dropped to the floor as the youth fired, the bullet grazing Murray's hand. The youth fled, pursued by Fred Finello, a sub patrolman, and Deputy Sheriff Herbert Reel and later by Barrie.

World Greets Pope Pius, Observing 75th Birthday

VATICAN CITY, May 31.—(AP.)—Pope Pius XI, oldest of the world's sovereign rulers, celebrated his seventy-fifth anniversary here today, celebrating a special mass of thanksgiving in his private chapel.

Only a few officials of the papal household, as well as his sister, Donna Camilla Ratti, and his niece and nephew by marriage, Marquise and Marquis Persichetti-Ugolini were invited to be present at the mass.

The Swiss Guards and papal gendarmes donned their full-dress uniforms. The papal flag of yellow and white, with the tiara and crossed golden keys upon it, was hoisted over vantage points in Vatican City and the Palatine Guards gave a concert.

Congratulatory telegrams poured into Vatican City from all corners of the earth. They were handed over to Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, who will respond to them on the Pontiff's behalf.

At the same time another celebration was under way at the little town of Desio, between Milan and Lake Como, where the Pope was born on May 31, 1857, as Achille Ratti, the fourth child of the manager of a local silk factory.

Masses of thanksgiving were said today in the chapel and the parish church. The square around the statue was decorated with the papal and Italian national colors.

It took many debates by a group of leading citizens finally to settle upon the proper wording of a telegram of congratulation to be sent to the Pontiff, the town's most noted son.

15,000 ATTEND AIR CIRCUS

Father Cox's aerial circus at Bettis Field yesterday was witnessed by more than 15,000 men, women and children.

Arriving from the City-County airport in a plane, Father Cox, dressed in an Army captain's uniform, was given a great ovation. With him was his uncle, Thomas Mason, 75, of Elk City, Okla., who made his first flight in a plane.

From the tower in the administration building, Father Cox told of the contemplated parade of unemployed to St. Louis for the "Jobless Liberty Party" convention August 17 and 18. He said:

"The Blueshirts have organized in every state in the union. We will leave Pittsburgh August 14 in trucks. I will ride in my small truck, which headed the parade of unemployed to Washington. But the red truck will be painted blue. I expect there will be more than a million men and women attend the convention, which will be held under God's clear sky and we will be heard like the Liberty Bell."

Hundreds of "Blueshirts," headed by Miss Betty Tripoli, of Wilkinsburg, who was dressed in the blueshirt smock for women, paraded and drilled on the field.

RECTOR PHOTO WITH GIRL HELD TRAP

International News Service.

LONDON, May 31.—How an advertising campaign scheduled for the United States was responsible for the fact the Rev. Harold Francis Davidson was photographed with a partly nude 16-year-old girl, was described today in Consistory Court, where the 60-year-old rector is on trial.

The mother of the girl, described in the proceedings only as "Miss D." was summoned as a defense witness. She said:

"My daughter was photographed to advertise her figure for the films. The picture was to be sent by air mail to America. I hoped she would get a job in the United States."

'DISGUSTING TRAP'

Davidson posed with the girl, she said, "but learned later it was a disgusting trap."

The girl herself took the stand and gave an explanation of how she came to be photographed with the rector with only a shawl partly draped around her.

It was first suggested, the mother said, that her daughter be photographed without even so much as the shawl. She added:

"But I objected to this."

The Bishop of London was then called in Davidson's defense. He testified he had known the accused rector for 30 years, declaring the latter "often begged money from me."

QUIZZED ON LETTER

The bishop was questioned concerning a letter he wrote in which he said Davidson had "pestered" him for 20 years.

The witness said the word was "too strong," adding that he did not know the letter was going to be made public. He was asked concerning Davidson's moral reputation. He said:

"I have never heard anything against him."

POLICE SCATTER BONUS VETS

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(INS.)—Fearing trouble of some sort, police moved to "scatter" the larger of the two concentrations of "bonus marchers" here yesterday.

The troublesome concentration consisted of more than a hundred marchers from all over the country quartered in an abandoned warehouse. The other large group was made up of about 300 marchers from Oregon, who since arrival here late yesterday have been quiet.

Police officials assigned to the bonus brigade by Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, termed the polyglot concentration in the warehouse a "sore spot."

Senator Costigan (Dem.), of Colorado, yesterday introduced a bill authorizing the appropriation of $675,000 for the care of unemployed in the District of Columbia.

Costigan proposed to set aside $75,000 at once for "emergency temporary care of transient and homeless persons," and $600,000 for local relief in the new fiscal year.

BUS FIRM HIRED FRIEND OF WALKER

Agent Testifies N. Y. State Senator Was Employed to Aid Company in City Hall

NEW YORK, May 31.—(AP.)—J. Allan Smith, New York representative of the Equitable Coach Company when the company was trying to get a city-wide bus franchise, testified before the Hofstadter Committee today that the company hired Senator John A. Hastings, friend of Mayor Walker, at a salary of between $10,000 and $12,000 a year to solicit for the favor of the franchise at the City Hall.

Smith testified that Hastings was hired because of his political friendships, but not because he might have any influence with the Mayor.

INFLUENCE LOUBTED

While he thought there was a close friendship between Mayor Walker and Senator Hastings, Smith said he did not think Hastings had any influence with the Mayor.

Assemblyman Louis Cuvillier, of the Democratic minority, interrupted proceedings to declare that in an impromptu Memorial Day speech near his Long Island home yesterday, Seabury had assailed the Mayor and city administration in an effort to obtain the Democratic presidential nomination. Cuvillier said:

"Mr. Seabury is employed to bring out evidence and not to go around making stump speeches."

Seabury replied:

"I defy the assemblyman to stop it."

Just before Smith took the stand, an accountant testified that Russell T. Sherwood had paid out more than $75,000 for the benefit of an unnamed person to whom Mayor Walker said on the stand last week he had authorized payments.

Documents in which the unnamed person figured were not introduced in evidence, neither today nor last week when they were submitted to the Mayor for identification.

NAME WITHHELD

The amount of only one payment was brought out—a check for $7,500 which the Mayor last week identified as having been paid with his authority out of the proceeds of his joint account with Paul Block, publisher.

It was said the unnamed person's identity would, by agreement, be withheld.

James T. Ellis, accountant employed by the committee, testified that the $75,000 payments from Sherwood's account to the unnamed person included $41,668.93 in stocks, and a $10,000 letter of credit purchased April 30, 1931.

$16,500 CREDIT

The letter of credit, Ellis testified, was increased three times on July 10, 1931, by $2,000, on July 29 by $2,500, and on August 5 by $2,000, making the total $16,500, all of which, he said, was paid by Sherwood in cash.

Walker testified last week that Sherwood frequently cashed checks for him besides paying his and Mrs. Walker's bills with Sherwood's checks, for which he had received cash from the Mayor.

PACIFIC PRIZE FLIGHTS OFF

AMARILLO, Tex., May 31.—(AP.)—A trans-Pacific flight by Harold Bromley—if he ever had planned one for a $25,000 prize offered by Seattle aviation enthusiasts—apparently was off today.

The prize cannot be claimed unless the Seattle-Tokio flight is completed by midnight June 1, Pacific standard time. That leaves insufficient time for the Dallas aviator, who was forced down here last night by an almost empty oil tank on what had been announced as a non-stop flight from New York to Burbank, Cal.

Harold Bromley took off toda for California. He planned to fol low the air mail route to Lo Angeles.

SEATTLE, May 31.—(AP.)—Months of preparation for a trans-Pacific flight came to naught when Nat Browne's airplane "Lone Star" was wrecked in a refueling attempt near the takeoff point yesterday.

The Texas-born flier and his volunteer parachute jumper assisting in refueling, Frank Brooks, were rescued from Puget Sound without serious injury.

2 Fliers Set to Race Time Around World

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 31.—(INS.)—Two airmen — Jimmy Mattern and Bennett Griffin—were today awaiting a favorable moment for the beginning of their contemplated attempt to smash the round-the-world flight record.

The Lockheed monoplane, in which the flying partners hoped to lower the globe-girdling mark of a little more than eight days established by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, stood poised at the airport.

THEFT SUSPECT SHOT IN CHASE

Marino Morrell, 18, of 563 Seventh avenue, was in Mercy Hospital today with a bullet wound in the right thigh inflicted by Patrolman George A. Best at Webster avenue and Chatham street early yesterday.

Morrell said he took a car to answer the description of the bandit-murderer preying on downtown gasoline stations, fled when Best and Patrolman George Cleary, in a taxicab, ordered him to halt. Best fired five shots. One of the bullets struck the radiator of the automobile of Frank Mazi, of 3430 Bates street, parked in Webster avenue.

Morrell limped to his home where he was found a short time later and taken to the hospital.

FARM CITY

Shantytown," in the shadow of old St. Patrick's Church at Liberty avenue and Seventeenth street, was deserted Sunday afternoon. These men had all found that was somehow or other out go "Coxtown" on the Kittanning pike where Father Cox, their friend and adviser, was the central figure in the fast-rising ceremonies marking the launching of his new and unique farming community for needy families.

It was an impressive ceremony and an impressive throng marked by patriotic thrills when the band played and the crowd sang the national anthem as the Stars and Stripes unfurled for the formal dedication of Coxtown.

Dear McCanns: —

I'll bet that Apple Strudle you have at the bread and cake counter is good, but it is too large for a family of two, so why not make a smaller size, say to sell at 13 or 15 cents?

Times also are hard, and I have, on several occasions, "fingered" the quarter, and bought a dozen of those delicious doughnuts instead.

Now, McCanns, it's up to you.

Sincerely yours,

Newest Summer Ensemble

—White Tubbable Silk Frock

—Heavy-Sheer Swagger Coat

$16.50

Here is an outfit that will take you smartly, anywhere, on a summer day. Swagger out to the Club, in the costume complete. Remove the coat, and lunch or play bridge in the snow-white, short-sleeved frock, or play golf in it if you choose . . . You can wear the costume in town with ease, too, since the white frock is washable.

The frocks are of crepe senoussi (the aristocrat of rough sports silks), or of flat crepe. And the coats, in black-and-white, navy-and-white or brown-and-white, are of a firm heavy-sheer.

The "Sunshine Corner," always alert to the new, presents three models, in sizes 34 to 42.

... Horne's, Second Floor ...

THE Joseph Horne Co. policy of first quality merchandise at all times is being impressively vindicated today by the nation-wide public rebellion against the over-exploitation of price, and the avalanche of cheap and unworthy merchandise which it has brought in its wake. The best cure for cheap merchandise is to get enough of it, and the trend of affairs in recent months clearly indicates that people have had plenty and enough. Quality is going to be scrutinized more closely than price in future shopping.

Today's commodity prices—the lowest in 20 years—emphasize the economy of quality. The finest things are so reasonably priced that practically everyone, who is able to buy at all, can afford good merchandise. This we will endeavor to demonstrate impressively to complete public satisfaction by Quality First Sales throughout the store, during June—by placing quality in direct and active competition with price. Make a comparison of Horne quality and price, for like article, before making any purchase.

Joseph Horne Co

The Joseph Horne Co. policy is to sell only First Quality merchandise, at all times, regardless of price.

MARION DAVIES GIVES LEGION AIR PRIZES

STAR LAUDS LEGION WORK

BURBANK, Cal., May 31 — Commending the activities of the American Legion in encouraging commercial aviation as an arm of national defense, Miss Marion Davies wrote

May 28, 1932.

Mr. Norman Lyon, Chairman,
Aeronautic Committee,
Department of California,
American Legion,
Los Angeles, California.

"Dear Mr. Lyon:

"I regret very much that I cannot accept your kind invitation to represent the ladies of California at the American Legion celebration at the United Airport, Burbank, on Decoration Day. I have just started on a new picture and am entirely engaged in necessary and unavoidable work in connection with this production.

"I have the greatest and sincerest regard for the American Legion and a high appreciation of all the great work the legion is doing for our country.

"I am particularly in sympathy with the award you are making on this occasion of a scholarship in aeronautics to the boy presenting the winning theme on the subject of commercial aviation as an aid to our national defense.

"Obviously commercial aviation is such an essential aid to our national defense that the activity of the legion in encouraging commercial aviation and providing for national defense must meet the enthusiastic commendation of every patriotic citizen.

"The country needs a keener realization of the necessity for national defense. We are all lovers of peace here in America. We want peace. We hope and pray for peace.

"We wish to live our lives in peaceful enjoyment of the benefits which our fine country affords, but our greatest statesmen have told us—and events have proved the wisdom of their warning—that in order to have peace and to enjoy peace it is necessary to be able to protect ourselves against war.

"War unfortunately has not disappeared from the earth. Racial prejudices and national antagonisms, commercial jealousies and clashing ambitions of hostile countries still exist and seem to be driving the world to another war and a greater war than the people of the earth have ever yet experienced.

"We want to keep out of it and we should be able to keep out of it. To be able to do so we must have an adequate national defense.

"We contemplate no aggression, but we must have a defense against aggression.

"Probably the most important arm of modern national defense is aviation, and since our representatives at Washington are sometimes blind to the necessities of national defense, it devolves upon patriotic citizens like those who constitute the American Legion to devise means of providing for a national defense when the emergency arises.

"The American Legion's plan of encouraging commercial aviation and so providing a reserve for national defense in the air is a splendid one, worthy of the high patriotic purposes and glorious record of the legion.

"I would like to identify myself in a small way with this fine project and to express my thanks for the invitation you have extended me and to convey the deep sympathy I have with the patriotic purposes of the Legion by offering similar prizes to the other four boys who have written notable essays on the subject of commercial aviation as an aid to national defense.

"If I am permitted to do this, I shall greatly value the privilege.

"Very sincerely,

"MARION DAVIES."

Von Hogan, state commander of the legion, and Norman Lyon, who presided, Hogan presented the scholarship awards as Miss Davies was prevented from being present because of her motion picture work.

Hail tribute to Miss Davies patriotism was paid by Lyon, who is chairman of the legion's state-wide aeronautics committee. He said:

"I wish we had more practical patriots like Miss Davies. You may not know it, but for four years she has given generously of her time every Armistice Day to make the legion's program a success.

"It was because of this loyalty and friendship that I went to the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios last Saturday to ask Miss Davies to represent the women of California at this morning's ceremonies.

"She informed me that her motion picture work would prevent her from attending. But imagine my delight when she asked me if she could not establish four other aeronautical scholarships for high school students and then wrote out a check for the purpose."

After the services the winners were taken aloft on a sightseeing trip in an air liner piloted by A. J. Black. All the students are to start a course in commercial aviation as part of their high school work within 60 days.

The scholarships were awarded for essays on "Commercial Aviation Essential to Our National Defense," the contest being conducted in high schools throughout California with the co-operation of the State Department of Education.

Royal Engagement In Sweden Reported

BERLIN, May 31.—The newspaper Lokal Anzeiger says it is reliably informed of the forthcoming betrothal of Prince Gustav Adolf, eldest son of the crown prince of Sweden, and Sibylle, princess of Saxony-Coburg-Gotha.

The paper says the engagement of the prince, who is 26, and the princess, who is 24, would be announced on June 16, the seventy-fourth birthday anniversary of King Gustav of Sweden.

Homestead Study Club Covers Wide Range

By MRS. CHARLES M. BRIGGS

That friendly little organization, the Prytaneum Study Club of Homestead, always manages to cover an unbelievable amount of ground in its year's study. The new year books carry promise of the usual diversified program for the coming season.

The members will begin their year on September 20 with a study of Manchuria. "Promised Land of Asia," going from that to "Everglades National Park," and "Our Expanding Dollar" in October. The World Court, an afternoon of chosen poems and Geography of Money will furnish program material for November and at December's lone meeting "Holland's War With the Sea" will be discussed.

"Are We Guarding Our Gates?" is the topic assigned for the first meeting in the new year, afternoons with Walter Damrosch and Mussolini following fortnightly. A book review, "The New Turkish Republic," "The Church College," Andrew Carnegie," "Phillips Brooks," "Cellophane," "Advertising," and "Cathedrals of the Old and the New World" complete the cycle.

Subjects Of Study

PARIS DECREES SIMPLE CLOTHES AND DECORATIVE ACCESSORIES

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, May 31.—Keep your afternoon clothes as simple as possible, have them made of as beautiful materials as possible and concentrate all decoration on your accessories—if you want to keep in step with Paris. Afternoon clothes, according to the new French opinion, must be, above all, lovely in line; they must follow as neatly as possible the lines of the natural figure, and are, therefore, actually devoid of any trimming or adornment which disturbs natural contours.

* * *

THE RESULT of simplicity in afternoon dress is naturally, an elaboration of afternoon accessories. Hats for formal luncheons, for bridge parties and for teas are more often than not, big elaborate affairs. The newer models are mostly of straw, and have big graceful brims that droop only enough to frame the line of the face and throat.

* * *

THERE ARE different opinions as to the way hats should be worn. Some milliners insist that the hat pulled well down over the eyebrows, dilaying the curls at the back of the neck, is the smartest and most fashionable. Others prefer the one which is sharply tilted, exposing the side, rather than the back of the head.

THE SKETCHED hat is one of these. It is an interesting new model just designed by Agnes. It is of red Italian straw, crowned with a wreath of laurel leaves in pale green. The ribbon which holds it in place is of waxed "angel-skin" in a gradation from brilliant red to white.

* * *

THE AFTERNOON BAG in the sketch is one of Volokhoff's new models of light grayish-blue georgette de laine. It has a slip fastening of nickel set with galalith in the same grayish-blue as the bag. Both gloves are from Perrin—one of glace kid in white, trimmed at the cuff edge with black and stitched at the finger edges in black; the net mitts, dotted in bracelet design, are made in white, to be dyed the color of your frock.

GARFIELD MAPS PLATFORM

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP).—To James R. Garfield, of Ohio, President Hoover has entrusted the task of compiling the platform upon which he and the Republican party will wage this year's campaign.

Garfield is to be chairman of the convention's resolutions committee, and as such yesterday began assembling the numerous platform suggestions already drawn by G. O. P. stalwarts. He conferred at the White House and the capitol, promised to call again next week, and parried all questions on the controversial platform issues, such as prohibition, with nothing more than a smile.

Son of the President who was assassinated in 1881, Garfield was politically active in the Progressive wing of the party up to 1912, when, after leading in Theodore Roosevelt's Bull Moose split, he retired to private life. He was Secretary of the Interior under Roosevelt and has stuck fast to that President's policies. He has never made a public statement on prohibition, which now promises to be the knottiest problem for the convention.

Sketch Club Makes Bow With Many Fine Pictures

By PENELOPE REDD

The Exchange Sketch Club makes its bow to the town in an exhibition at Elliott's which will be on view through June 11. The child of the Pittsburgh Architectural Club, the exhibition is primarily designed to build up a collection of members' work for the club and for an exchange of work between members.

Miss Redd

A holiday is ill-spent in an architect's life unless he garner a sheaf of sketches. Even a war did not prevent Ezra Stiles from preserving a souvenir of the Cher River at Tours, where the soldiers bathed. Ted Kohankie had to capture "Tintagel" before he journeyed farther. Ralph Griswold brings fragrant fragments of Roman gardens and of Norman Douglas-land in a decorative mood at Capri. Stephen D'Amico highlights vignettes of old New Orleans. Charles Stotz brings out with incisive brilliance the subtle erosion of time and people on human habitations in drawings of old Quebec and older Amalfi.

Gerald Schoonover in a group of water colors of Pittsburgh pastorals has the best individual exhibit of the show. Ernest Boyer strolls out from his home in Brentwood to compose landscapes that are worthy of the company captained by Seymour-Haden. Alfred Marks shows us the familiar Sixth Street Bridge in terms of rhythmic design. Herbert Douden justifies the rickety forms of old buildings near the Wabash Terminal. Rody Patterson has a vigorous rendering of the facade of an Economy house.

Arthur Naylor, the guiding spirit at the Elliott shows, has a spirited exhibition in the initial presentation of the Exchange Sketch Club. The drawings are all done with spontaneity, but the discipline of the architect's training saves them from the superficially picturesque.

SEWICKLEY DOG SHOW PLANNED

The entry list for the annual Sewickley dog show, to be held at the Allegheny Country Club, on June 18, is expected to be virtually completed next week. Mrs. Lewis A. Park, general chairman, said today. The proceeds of the show will aid the charitable work of Allegheny General Hospital.

Mrs. Park, assisted by Mrs. B. F. Jones, III, has announced the appointment of the following aides on the show committees: Mrs. Maitland Alexander, Mrs. Marshall Bell, Mrs. J. Frederick Byers, Mrs. Henry Chalfant, Mrs. George L. Collard, Mrs. George Crawford, Mrs. Carroll P. Davis, Mrs. Harmar D. Denny, Mrs. Gordon Fisher, Mrs. B. F. Jones, Jr., Mrs. James E. Lewis, Mrs. Sydney Liggett, Mrs. H. Lee Mason, Jr., Mrs. T. A. McGinley, Mrs. Robert Milligan, Mrs. Henry R. Rea, Mrs. Sarah G. Ricketson, Mrs. Alexander L. Robinson, Mrs. W. C. Ad Club to Hear Talk About Profits

J. Jay Fuller, of Buffalo, was to speak on "Making Business Make a Profit" before the Pittsburgh Advertising Club luncheon today in the William Penn Hotel. Mr. Fuller is secretary of the Advertising Affiliation, which includes advertising clubs of New York, Ohio and Ontario in the Lake Erie district. He is vice president of the Moss-Chase Company, a national advertising agency.

THEATER MEN URGE 5 BILLION WORK LOAN

Warn Congressmen That Amusement Enterprises Are Peril; Support Pledged

Stressing the impending peril to the huge investment of the amusement business, with all other industry and enterprise, the Theater Managers' Association of Pittsburgh today was appealing to Congress for passage of a $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan to create employment on necessary public projects.

A memorial to Congress, adopted by the organization, was being sent to the two Senators from Pennsylvania and Congressmen from this district by Secretary Eugene LeMoyne Connelly. The memorial cited:

"Whereas, the whole amusement business of America, along with all other industry and enterprise, in which huge fortunes are invested, is imperiled by the present unparalleled stagnation, now therefore be it:

"Resolved, That the Theater Managers' Association of Pittsburgh, in regular meeting assembled, respectfully urges the Hon. David A. Reed and the Hon. James J. Davis, United States Senators from Pennsylvania, and all the Representatives in Congress from this Commonwealth, to vote and use all their influence to secure the passage of a law which will authorize the issuance of government bonds sufficient to cover the cost of the aforesaid program of public works ($5,000,000,000 prosperity bond), and end the intolerable delay by providing constructive measures to resuscitate business and combat the stark starvation that now menaces millions of loyal American citizens."

Individual signatures attached to the organization's petition included representatives of Warner Brothers Theaters, Inc., Loew's Penn Theater, Alvin Theater, Nixon Theater and R. K. O. Sheridan Square Theater.

Congressman Edmund F. Erk and Harry A. Estep pledged full support in prompt replies.

DETROIT, May 31.—(INS)—A plea to the municipal governments in all the states to join in the demand made by the mayors of Michigan for immediate action by Congress on a $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan was made today by Mayor Frank Murphy on the eve of the national mayors' conference here. Mayor Jimmy Walker, of New York, speaks tomorrow. Mayors of 27 cities will attend. President of Council John S. Herron, Pittsburgh, will represent Mayor Charles H. Kline.

SEATTLE, May 31.—(Universal)—A statewide conference of all service men's groups in Washington has been called for June 4 by the United Veteran Club to demand federal aid state action on unemployment relief.

CHICAGO, May 31.—(Universal)—Mayors and officials of Northern Illinois towns will meet here tomorrow to act on resolutions demanding Congress approve the $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan. Municipal authority of the remainder of the state mobilize Thursday at East St. Louis.

2 POSE AS DRYS, FINED $25

Two men were fined $25 or 30 days in jail in South Side Police Court today for impersonating prohibition officers.

Martin Galcawski, who operates a confectionery store at 76 South Twelfth street, told Magistrate J. J. Sweeney the men came into his store last night and, after buying two bottles of pop, displayed a flask and told him he was under arrest for selling whisky.

Galcawski called police and the men, giving their names as Hughie Parker, 22, of 325 East Carson street, and Edward Mangan, 24, of 1164 Freyburg street, were arrested near his store.

"I put Beth wise to cheap chips—"

I said, "They're fading your clothes. Change to Chipso—it's safe!"

You can IMAGINE how BETH FELT when NEW CLOTHES TORE as if ROTTEN!

When she said she bought CHEAP SOAP CHIPS, I had to WARN her, "You DON'T KNOW what's in THOSE CHIPS! But CHIPSO is GUARANTEED SAFE—NO FREE LYE in CHIPSO!"

Nothing in CHIPSO but RICHER SOAP. CHIPSO'S WONDERFUL SUDS SOAK DIRT out FASTER!

And when YOU WASH DISHES with CHIPSO—you'll be HAPPY to SEE how it SMOOTHS out your HANDS!

"My undershirts are lasting now," said Fred

So I said, "Chipso makes clothes wear longer"

Fred got so MAD when NEW UNDERSHIRTS went to PIECES—"Why do you BUY those CHEAP SOAP CHIPS?" he said, "You CAN'T TELL what JUNK goes in them!"

• • •

So now I'm using CHIPSO, CLOTHES are WEARING fine! CHIPSO DOESN'T have any FREE LYE that ROTS the STRENGTH out of GOOD CLOTHES!

• • •

You'll know CHIPSO is SAFER when you use it for DISHES—and SEE how MILD it is on your HANDS.

Constance Bennett's Pay $30,000 a Week

HOLLYWOOD, May 31.—(INS.)—The income of Constance Bennett, film star, was $30,000 a week or $4,285.71 a day, $178.57 an hour and $2.97 a minute under a contract with a studio to make two pictures in 10 weeks for $300,000, Hollywood mathematicians figured today.

BITS OF LIFE :-:

All in a Day

:-: BY MARK HELLINGER

THE FIRST portion of today's sermon, boys and girls, concerns four gentlemen who were vitally concerned in seeing a certain man elected to a certain office. A week before election day the situation was rather dubious. Then candidate had an outside chance of winning, but they needed more money to push the thing across. They gathered in consultation one morning and looked things squarely in the face.

"Boys," said one, "we need at least $10,000 more to win this campaign. We've hit about everybody there is to hit in this town. What are we going to do about it?"

Another man spoke.

"There's no use kidding ourselves," he cried. "We can run down the entire list and we'll hit but one man who will possibly come across at this time. That man is C—— D——."

There was a chorus of wails.

"Yes," agreed another, he might let us have the $10,000 if we hit him, but enough. But I, for one, couldn't do it. C—— D—— has been dangerous good to us so far. He's given more to our campaign than any other man in town.

"Now, with the end of the campaign at hand, you're going to ask him for $10,000 more. It isn't fair, boys. And I won't do it."

The first man spoke again.

"It may not be fair," he remarked, "and he'll probably squawk like the devil. But so far as I can see it's the only chance we have left. If we don't get our $10,000 for stamps and incidentals we're licked. And you all know it.

"Now, here's what we'll do. We'll all go down to his place right after lunch and tell him we need $50,000. He'll put up a holler, as he has a perfect right to do.

"Then we'll cut it to $40,000; then to $20,000. And finally, when we hit $10,000 he'll be so relieved that he'll come across. Let's do it, boys. It's our one outside chance."

Two of the others nodded in complete agreement. But the third one, who had objected previously, shook his head.

"Sorry, boys," he insisted, "but I can't go with you this time. I just can't see us asking C—— D—— for that additional money. My pride's a little too strong to beg in that fashion.

"You fellows go along. I'll meet you here again at 4 o'clock this afternoon. I wish you all the luck in the world"...

When 4 o'clock in the afternoon finally rolled around, the man who objected to the final touch on C—— D—— came back to the office in question. His three friends were already there—and one look at their long faces convinced him that they hadn't been able to make good.

He sat down and faced them.

"Well, fellows," he said quietly, "I can see that you didn't get the dough. But don't take it so hard. After all is said and done, we did our best."

One of the men looked up.

"Don't be silly," he muttered, "we got the dough all right. In fact, we got more than we bargained on.

"Here's what happened. We walked into C—— D——'s office and told him how the situation stood. We informed him that we needed $50,000 more.

"No sooner were the words out when C—— D—— was on his feet.

"'Gentlemen,' he chirps 'your candidate is a man I love and respect. I don't want you to go any further soliciting money for his campaign. Instead of asking anyone else I would deem it a great honor and a decided privilege if you would permit me to subscribe the additional $50,000 in a complete sum.'

"So we leave his office five minutes later with the check for fifty grand. The election is now as good as won."

The objector stared at the speaker in astonishment.

"You wanted $10,000," he cried, "and you got $50,000. In the name of all that's sensible why are you fellows sitting around with long faces?"

Silence for a moment. Then one of the others spoke.

"Aw," he said bitterly, "can't you see? If we'd asked him for $100,000, he probably would have given us that!" ...

* * *

AROUND the neighborhood, reports C. D. M., they called him the Count. He was the same as a thousand other kids that were growing up all around him. The family had no money to spare, but they kept him in school until the day when they thought he would be old enough to go to work.

When the boy was 12 years old his father died. The Count wanted to sell papers, but his mother wouldn't hear of it. She took in washing and slaved desperately to make both ends meet.

Five years later the mother became unbalanced. Nothing extremely serious at the moment, but the doctors told the Count that his mother would have to go to an institution. He agreed immediately. The following morning she was gone.

The boy needed money now. Needed it desperately. He had to have it for doctors and for his mother's board. There aren't many ways that a boy of 17 can make much money. The Count found one way, however. He turned crooked.

He became a tough hard-boiled character. Hard-boiled, that is, except for two things. One was that he would never let his mother know what course he had taken.

"If I ever get nabbed," he vowed to his pals, "I'll never let her find it out. If I see that they're goin' to get me, I'll bump myself off. And then it'll be you fellows' duty to tell her I was killed in an accident. I want you boys to promise me that I don't want her ever to find out."

His other soft-hearted mood arrived every Sunday morning. When that time rolled around, he would visit the sanitarium, pay her board, tell her how well he was doing and present her with a little gift.

"You'll be out in no time, mom," he would cry. "You'll see. You and I will be back together in the old house before long. It's in the cards, mom."

The Count went along in this fashion for two years. He wasn't arrested once. But there's always an end. They caught him one morning before a blown safe.

On his way to the station house the Count broke down and cried like a baby. The policeman kidded him.

"A fine gunman you are!" they howled. "Stop your bawling and take your medicine like a man."

They had no idea why the Count was crying. They didn't know he was a man because he was crying.

A short time later, in his cell, the news came to him from a friend. A police lieutenant who was feeling well had permitted the friend through.

"How about mom?" were the Count's first words. "Does she know?"

The friend shook his head.

"She ain't gonna know, Count," was his response. "She died an hour before you was nabbed." ...

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

A Columnist, Who Gave His Sec'y 12 Mos. Off With Pay, Writes to Himself, the Liar!

Dear P. Y.: You're always complaining about not getting enough sleep . . . Well, you had me and everybody else believing it! . . . But how do you account for the call I got this morning from the management of your hotel? . . . They wanted to know if I could do anything about getting you out of bed so that they could complete the spring cleaning in your suite . . . Their housekeeper reported that you went to sleep Sundawning and hadn't got up yet . . . They didn't have to get a report on the situation, all they had to do was read your column for the past few wks . . . George Raft called . . . He had just stepped off the train from Hollywood and was so flustered I could tell he didn't expect the reception he got . . . Do you remember a few yrs. ago when he left for the coast and vowed he'd not return until he made good? . . . That's Hollywood! . . . Texas Guinan phoned . . . She has opened a place on Merrick Rd. and wants you to come out . . . She asked me to impress on you that "the night will be long and the house will be yours" . . . Do you think she told the other columnists the same thing? . . . I told her you didn't mind, but that I knew you'd prefer the house to be long and the night to be yours . . . She giggled and said you embarrassed her . . . Norma Taylor called . . . She said she had nothing better to do so she thought she would call you and tell you how much she was in love with John Hutchins . . . As if you didn't find out last night when you took her to the theater . . . When will you stop trying to chisel in on your best pals?

Deems Taylor called . . . Why didn't you recognize Dorothy Mackaill in Reuben's yesterdawning? . . . She's a swell actress, and you shouldn't have passed her up like that . . . There's a cable from Roxy . . . Also one from John (Times) Byram . . . He's drinking beer in the Haus Vaterland in Berlin with Dick Watts and will bring back some of the corks for you to smell . . . There's a wire from Sylvia Sindney thanking you . . . That's a funny story about the young lawyer who was compelled to keep a blind date last night . . . He wasn't sure he'd like the girl so he sent himself a wire in care of the Nut Club and when he arrived he told Jimmy, the head-waiter, not to deliver it until he was given the signal . . . The girl proved a bit heavy and not the type for romance, so at the right moment, he gave Jimmy the okay and a waiter paged him . . . Dashing back to his table, he showed the dame the wire and excused himself hurriedly . . . It read: "Get in touch with the governors at once as they are walking me to the chair" . . . It was signed with the name of an Italian murderer in the Sing Sing death-house . . . The payoff was that the lawyer came back an hour later with a blonde Scandell on his arm and remained till closing.

Lew Gensler called . . . His "Ballyhoo" is in rehearsal and he said that he didn't want to get into your hair but would you please mention it . . . I told him that if he knew how high your forehead was, he'd know that nothing could get into your hair . . . And I'll say worse things than that about you, if I don't get my check for March pretty soon . . . It's a good thing Joe Zelli asked you to reverse the charges on that call to Parisque the night . . . The operator told me it was $310 . . . But I can understand a fellow being willing to spend that much to tell a Broadway columnist off . . . Did you get Mrs. P. Lampkin in Washington? . . . She called at 10-18 last night . . . The office boy wanted to quit yesterday and I had a hard time convincing him to stay . . . He said he felt hurt when you reprimanded him for editing your copy . . . He claims he went three grades beyond kindergarten and therefore had more schooling than any columnist living . . . I pointed to your U. of M. diploma and he replied that he has three just like it and that he got them at the same auctioneer's from where yours came . . . I finally pacified him by letting him put a few extra periods in your copy for tomorrow and also gave him your tickets for the Madge Kennedy show . . . I also gave him a handful of your Coronas for his father . . . Danny Ahearn, who wrote "How to Commit a Murder," came in again . . . He doesn't look dangerous at all and I like him . . . He says his pals have been kidding him because I told you I threw a book at him last wk . . . Well, I didn't throw a book, I threw an ink-well.

Jack Osterman says that the worst second-story man is the fellow who insists on telling a story for the second time . . . I think that Helene Cambridge in the Paramount Grill revue is beautiful . . . But I don't know why I should go out scouting good-looking girls for you . . . Not with March unpaid for! . . . Terry Donaghue did not leave his editor-ship of Brevities . . . The Jack Marlowes (Jeanie Faulk) were heard last night . . . I hear that Chamberlain Brown is paying actors $2 a week and board to perform in Summer companies he announced a fortnight back . . .

There's a note from John Wexley, who wrote "The Last Mile" . . . He's in Vienna working on another social play . . . And will return next mo.

Jackie Cooper called . . . He was with Louis K. Sidney, the Loew exec. . . . They were headed for the roller-coaster in Palisades Park and wanted you to come along . . . When I told them how busy you were worrying about your col., Jackie said that a few turns on the loop-the-loop should help you in your work . . . See, even children are on to you! . . . Smith Ballew is another nifty-er, he says that the reason there is so much clashing in the Arena is because the bride never gets the best man . . . But I differ with him . . . I think that that is the reason.

TALKIE TOWN -:- Gossip About Players of Screen and Stage -:- NEW MOVIES

Fairbanks, Sr., Inventive Host

BY HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, May 31.—Douglas Fairbanks is now being voted Hollywood's most inventive host.

As a climax to a private showing of "Tarzan the Ape-man," he panicked his distinguished guests at Pickfair by introducing into their midst a full-grown chimpanzee, borrowed for the evening from a local zoo.

The simian guest of honor promptly became the hit of the party. For several hours he held the floor, throwing some of Hollywood's most famous celebrities into fits of laughter by his antics and near human grimaces. To the eternal pride of the Hollywood contingent, Donald Ogden Stewart is credited with twice topping him.

Douglas Fairbanks

The best part of the gag may easily be the great field it opens up to other harassed hosts. The whole animal kingdom lies at their disposal.

They tell it that Irving Caesar and Al Jolson were reminiscing about their youth.

"I recall," said Caesar, "how my father used to go down to the public library in the evenings and help to teach English to newly arrived foreigners."

"Too bad," flipped Jolson, "he should have spent more time at home with you."

MAN BITES DOG

If you can believe Edward Anthony Brown, the familiar newspaper proverb should go like this:

"When a man bites a dog, that's gin."

Perhaps he is thinking of the story they used to tell on a well known actor and man-about-Hollywood.

Always immaculate and usually in his cups, he was beset by a puppy one day as he was weaving down a Beverly Hills sidewalk, attired in faultless morning clothes.

Though he kicked out lustily at the pup, it always returned to work at his trousers cuff.

Finally, the actor let out a yell and charged at the amazed dog. Across a yard, through shrubbery, into the next yard the pursuit continued. Cornering his quarry at last, the actor dived headlong and made the capture.

He picked the cringing puppy up by the nape of the neck and fixed it with a glare. Suddenly, he leaned forward and set his teeth in the pup's leg.

"There," he cried, tossing it down, "See how you like that!"

AND SO TO GOSSIP

Jean Harlow tells me she has worn her red wig in public only once—at the opening of "Grand Hotel." Her own platinum tresses, she has shampooed every five days, adding a few drops of bluing to the water. . . . Everybody in Hollywood is glad Hoot Gibson and Sally Eilers have made it up. And happiest of all is Hoot's little girl, Lois . . . Anita Loos confesses she has never gotten beyond collecting material for "Child's Life of Wilson Mizner" . . . Several people have called to tell me that Dorothy Jordan has a new boy friend, but it really is her brother from Clarkesville, Tenn. . . . Mrs. Frank Borzage has sailed from Honolulu. She's been away three months . . . You'd never recognize Jean Hersholt since he took off those 22 pounds . . . Saw Theda Bara today lunching at M. G. M. . . . Out there, they say that Ramon Novarro gets the largest foreign fan mail of any star in Hollywood.

— Plays and Players —

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS.

Frank Morgan, formerly one of the foremost actors of the serious stage, appears to have forsaken it entirely in favor of the lighter form dramatic art. Last season he surprised critics by appearing in a revue, "Band Wagon," in which he made a hit of the first order. Not long ago that show wound up its little ball of yarn and now Mr. Morgan is going to jump into "Hey, Nonny, Nonny," which opens Thursday in New York, as the first of the summer revues and show teacher how much he has learned in his primary year.

Roger Wolfe Kahn, who abandoned orchestra-leading after making a sensational hit in his home town, New York, where his papa, Otto H. Kahn, is a leading financier and prominent patron of the drama and opera, will take up the baton again. He will wave it at an orchestra that will be a stage feature of a revue, "Ballyhoo," that is expected to be ready for visual survey by the last of June. Bobby Connolly will be its director.

* * *

Representative William O. Sirovich, who wrote a play that was panned by the critics, and got back by asking Congress to do something about critics, has written another, and it will be produced by Gustav Blum . . . The picture that Gloria Swanson will make in an English studio with some location sequences in France is tentatively titled "Perfect Understanding" . . . John Gilbert will begin work this week on "Downstairs," an M-G-M film . . . Bette Davis, now working with Richard Barthelmess in "Cabin in the Cotton," will appear later in "Silver Dollar," starring Edward G. Robinson . . . Monte Blue's starring picture, "The Stoker," will have Natalie Moorhead and Dorothy Burgess as the femmes . . . Mary Brian has joined the personal appearancers now working in the East . . . Conrad Nagel has been signed to play the lead in "The Man Called Back," which appeared in book form as "Silent Thunder" . . . Charlie Chaplin films, the old two-reelers that made him famous are being reissued with music and sound dubbed in. "Easy Street," "The Cure," "The Rink" and "The Pawnshop" being among them . . . Mr. Ziegfeld may do a musical version of "The Bad Man" if he can get Leo Carillo for the title role.

PRESBYTERIANS VOTE TO STAY IN COUNCIL

POLITICS

Responibility Pinned To G. O. P. by Kephart

By MARK SHIELDS

Mr. Shields

While Justice John W. Kephart emphatically said there was no political connection to his appearance last Saturday before the Allegheny County Republican Committee organization meeting on the North Side, every politician in Pennsylvania is buzzing today about the expressions of Mr. Kephart.

Justice Kephart's theme was the need for state relief for the unemployed. He made a speech which was full of some sound common sense, and it unquestionably was in the mind of every auditor that the jurist was the author of the Supreme Court opinion upholding the Talbot act, passed by the last special session to appropriate $10,000,000 for direct aid.

Without frills he warned the Republicans present that the party would be punished if it did nothing to meet the existing emergency. There isn't an intelligent politician in Pennsylvania who will challenge Justice Kephart on that score.

But the big moment of his speech was when he said:

"The Republican state organization cannot escape responsibility by saying 'we have no program.'"

There were several political leaders present who have a hand in state affairs. They remembered that only the day before State Chairman Edward Martin, referring to the proposal of Gov. Pinchot to call a special session, had said:

"We have no program."

Gen. Martin already is a candidate for Governor. There are many who believe Justice Kephart is also, as he has been off and on for several years. The Kephart statement was interpreted as a direct challenge to Martin.

Gubernatorial Campaign Of 1934 Hotly Under Way

It appears that the gubernatorial campaign of 1934 already is hotly under way. There are those who expect Justice James B. Drew, of the Supreme Court, to try a foot in the waters also, and it would not be surprising to see Justice George W. Maxey wriggle a toe or two, to see of the stream is warm and friendly.

It is impossible to keep down political talk when a Justice of the Supreme Court from Cambria County appears at the meeting of the Republican County Committee of Allegheny County.

Pennsylvanians supporting the boom of Franklin D. Roosevelt for the Democratic presidential nomination now assert he will have 691 votes on the first ballot, a huge total in view of the fact that 770 is two-thirds of the total delegate vote necessary to nominate. The total is arrived at by lumping delegates said to be instructed or pledged, not instructed but "favorable," from split delegations and expected to pledge.

It is interesting to note in this total only 61 from Pennsylvania in view of previous contentions that this state would furnish 66 Roosevelt votes. Included in this 61 are six from Allegheny County in districts which in the primary vote preferred Al Smith to Roosevelt, and where it would appear there is an obligation to support as the nominee the 1928 candidate.

These delegates would have no moral obligation, of course, to any one but Smith, and if and when Al tries to swing his sympathies to some other candidate they should be free to go back to Roosevelt. The Smith group has reached the point where it has completed a ticket with which it hopes to stop Roosevelt.

Newton D. Baker is the choice for the presidency of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, for vice president.

Coyne to Suggest Aid For Small Home Owners

That is aimed to appeal to North and South, and Ritchie, despite his wetness, is the bait held out to some of the delegates the Roosevelt people classify as "favorable." If Smith, John Raskob and their associates cannot land such a combination they hope at least to keep the balloting open while negotiations go on to throw the nomination elsewhere than to Roosevelt.

William M. Butler, former Senator from Massachusetts, and Republican national chairman in the Coolidge campaign, has let national leaders know he does not want to be national chairman in the coming campaign. The place was tendered him, it is reliably reported, but he has had enough of the national limelight.

Senator James J. Coyne, at the meeting tomorrow in Harrisburg of organization leaders with Gov. Pinchot to discuss special session plans, will suggest that the state underwrite loans from the national government for the benefit of small home owners who are unable to meet their taxes and face loss of their property.

It is improbable that tomorrow's meeting will result in a complete and definite program. Deciding where and how to secure necessary revenue is a problem for more than one conference.

Lauding President Hoover at the county committee meeting Saturday, Chairman William H. Coleman declared:

"Mr. Hoover has passed through his Valley Forge, he is nearing his Yorktown, and will be re-elected in November."

There were some cheers, but those present whom the late Joseph G. Armstrong used to designate "the boys and girls," would have been more enthused could they have had some assurance that eventually they would find Mr. Hoover heading for Brandywine.

AUTO ACCIDENTS TAKE 3 LIVES IN DISTRICT

Suspect, Traced by Blood, Denies Causing Death of Aged, Unidentified Woman

An unidentified woman, aged about 60, died in Allegheny General Hospital early today of injuries suffered a short time before when she was struck by an automobile in Irwin avenue near Fillmore street.

The only clue to her identity is a wedding ring inscribed "H. H. Mc to C. C. M., 1910."

Helen Balewicz, 7, of 3028 Phelan way, was fatally injured when she was struck by an automobile in Wible Run road, near Anderson road, Millvale, late yesterday.

Benny Bodell, 12, of 5 Miller street, died last night in Mercy Hospital shortly after he had been struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. Alice M. Gage, of New Kensington, Pa., the Coroner's office reported.

JOHN M. KRAUS, 8, AT THE POINT LAUNCHING A TRIBUTE TO GO DOWN TO THE SEAS

Soldier Heroes Honored At Ceremonies on Memorial Day

Allegheny County yesterday paid tribute to its dead heroes and honor to its living. Beginning early in the morning and continuing throughout the day parades and special services at cemeteries marked the Memorial Day celebration.

One of the largest observances in years was held at Allegheny Cemetery, where the memorial address was given by the Rev. Henry W. Welday, pastor of the Sewickley Methodist Episcopal Church. At the adjoining St. Mary's Cemetery ceremonies were held under auspices of Post No. 41, G. A. R., and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Speakers were the Rev. Michael J. O'Shea, of St. Peter's Catholic Church, North Side, and the Rev. James R. Cox, pastor of Old St. Patrick's Church.

In East Liberty 3,000 ex-service men paraded to Homewood Cemetery, while the East Liberty Allied Veterans' Association paraded to St. Peter's Lutheran and Mt. Carmel cemeteries.

The Sixth Division, United States Naval Reserve of the Pittsburgh district, held services at the Point for sailors who lost their lives at sea.

Three volleys were fired by the firing squad of eight men, taps sounded by Quartermaster G. A. Heaton, then a small floral piece was launched by John M. Kraus, 8, from the Reserve's convertible motor launch. The boy is the son of John J. Kraus, fireman of the launch.

The memorial services were conducted by the Rev. F. J. Ledwig, of Duquesne University, a former naval chaplain during the war.

Services for Dormont and Mt. Lebanon, sponsored by the South Hills Memorial Day Association, started with a parade through the principal streets of the borough and township. Services were held in Mt. Lebanon Cemetery.

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern delivered the Memorial address at services in Chartiers Cemetery, participated in by communities of Chartiers Valley.

Other services were held in Minersville, McKeesport, Duquesne, Dravosburg, Etna and Sharpsburg, at the Greenwood Cemetery, the North Side in Uniondale Cemetery and in Lincoln Cemetery where services were held for Negro soldiers.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., May 31.

To the Editor of Sun-Telegraph:

The sales tax is going to pass. It won't pass this year, for all the boys are up for election, and they want to show their voter where he is not to pay anything. But as soon as election is over, and when they get back in, they will go ahead and pass it. For it's the fairest and easiest to collect. No nation that ever tried it ever abandoned it. What's the difference between a lot of taxes put on a lot of articles, and few taxes put on everything but the cheapest necessities.

Yours, WILL.

Conventions of 2 Parties Seem to Belong in Reno

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

The way it looks now there will be at least three Republican parties and four Democratic.

The big boys are arguing like hoss-traders at a rodeo. They can't agree and are splitting up like soda crackers in hot soup.

The manner in which the head men are divorcing themselves from the national committees indicates the winning convention will be held at Reno.

Smith and Roosevelt are as friendly as a wire brush and a sore scalp. Borah and Hoover are that way. But not about each other.

It's the old gag. I'll go my way and you go my way too. The result is exactly what happened to the Royal Irish Orchestra of Dublin. Every musician wanted to be the leader and even the drummer bought himself a high hat.

Don't let anybody tell you that the people lack a leader.

That ain't the trouble. We've got too many leaders who lack people.

FIGHT AT 44TH ASSEMBLY OF CHURCH FAILS

Fundamentalists Protesting Birth Control Approval Lose Fight to Quit Body

DENVER, May 31.—(AP.)—A fundamentalist flare-up at the one hundred and forty-fourth general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., was quickly squelched as the commissioners overwhelmingly voted to continue the present relationship between the church and the Federal Council of Churches of Christ.

A vigorous but futile effort for the severance of relations with the Federal Council was led by the Rev. H. McAllister Griffiths, of Philadelphia, who asserted:

"The Federal Council has compromised us doctrinely, politically, and so far as good morals are concerned. We must remain by the great reform faith or go down the long road of modernism and religious liberalism which leads to agnosticism."

Supporting Mr. Griffiths was the Rev. Edwin J. Reinke, of West Grove, Pa., who declared:

"We can't quite trust the leadership of the Federal Council."

CITES SCOTCH ELDERS

He referred to a statement approving birth control which was issued last year by a subdivision of the Federal Council, and then made a direct appeal for severance of relations, citing the Scotch elders:

"Who came to this country with a Bible under one arm and a cradle under the other, holding sacred the institution of holy matrimony."

Leaders in the council of churches—Robert E. Speer, of New York, former layman moderator; the Rev. Asa J. Perry, of Chicago; the Rev. Mark A. Matthews, of Seattle, and others—declared against any change in the relationship with the Federal Council, thereby assuring the defeat of Mr. Griffiths' proposal.

There being no contests for three offices in the permanent Judicial Commission, the supreme judicial court of the church, the election of the following men today was a formality:

Judge Clifford L. Hilton, St. Paul, associate justice of the Supreme Court of Minnesota, as moderator; the Rev. William P. Lampe, St. Louis, vice moderator, and W. Hall Harries, Jr., Baltimore, clerk.

U. P. Missionary Leader Opposes Plan for Unity

BEAVER, Pa., May 31.—Union of the various Presbyterian denominations was opposed by Mrs. J. D. Sands, of Pittsburgh, speaking for the Women's General Missionary Society of the United Presbyterian Church at the seventy-fourth general assembly of that denomination. It was the first time the society had a voice in assembly matters. She reviewed the work of missions and asked what was to become of it if the merger were effected.

The assembly reaffirmed its stand in favor of prohibition and voted to retain the special group in charge of action on propored union with the Presbyterian Church of the United States.

Eight men were entered in the contest.

DO YOU INHALE?

Is this question too revealing for other cigarettes?

WE do not criticize others. We merely call your attention to the fact that the vital subject of inhaling has been generally avoided in cigarette advertising.

Why? What's there to be afraid of? Everybody inhales! Seven out of ten smokers inhale knowingly—the other three do so without realizing it. From your side—you want to be sure that the smoke you breathe in is pure and clean—free from certain impurities.

But from the manufacturer's side—he should be sure of giving you this protection. And if he is sure—he need not worry about the question: "Do you inhale?"

Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question . . . because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Prize-Winning Essay Of East End Boy

John Tabor, 10, won the distinction not only of being one of the youngest to enter the Hearst essay contest on the Farewell Address of George Washington, but captured as well one of the 12 medals. A student in the sixth grade, Colfax School, and residing at 6429 Bartlett street, Master Tabor's composition follows:

Washington's Farewell Address:

In 1796 George Washington was asked by the people of the United States to act as President for a third time. Washington refused, saying that it would be unfair to his fellow citizens who also wanted to be President. He also said that it would be making that office like a kingship instead of a presidency. Washington said he wanted to go back to his farm and live the peaceful life of a farmer.

QUESTION OF AUTHOR

He then made his farewell address to Congress and the people of the United States. There is a doubt, however, concerning who wrote this farewell address. It is said Washington started it and sent it to Alexander Hamilton, who went over it and then sent it back to Washington.

The remarkable fact about Washington's farewell address is that if one did not know when it was written one would think it was written recently. It discusses the very same fundamental principles we need advice on now, such as friendship among nations and states, education of individuals and building our government on a fair, firm foundation. He had the vision to see ahead into the future the needs of our republic as a democracy.

HOPES FOR NATION

In his address Washington told Congress that he had done his best to help his country and that he must leave public life, but that he hopes our nation would not get mixed up in other nations' troubles. He also said that even ally we will need additional parts to the Constitution of the United States to meet the new changes. He said that the North must help the South and the East must help the West. He wanted to show them that they must work as one to be strong. He said the same thing Lincoln said nearly one hundred years later, "In union there is strength." He also added that the people be moral and just and fair.

This farewell address of George Washington's will live through the ages in peoples' hearts just as George Washington lives in the heart of every American today.

BUYER'S GUIDE AND BUSINESS REVIEW

AMERICA NEEDS OLD FASHIONED BOOSTING

This Period of Liquidating Everything Also to End; Future Prosperity 'Cheap'

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
United News Staff

NEW YORK, May 31.—Cynicism, suspicion and pessimism are in excess supply in this country.

In its present mood, there is a desire to liquidate everything—not only securities but personalities as well. But this disposition also will pass.

The country needs old-fashioned boosting. He [illegible] knows the boosters are [illegible] distasteful enough in the excesses during the boom, but now we are in the mean of the anti-boosters. Business should get back to Socrates' maxim: "Nothing too much."

Mr. Rukeyser

As Chief Justice Hughes remarked in a recent address:

"Discouragement pays no dividends and this is not a time for relaxing effort, but for redoubling it. These are hard days, critical days, but they are days in which it is worth while to live and toil—stirring days."

Whatever the future may hold forth, equitable claims on future prosperity, when, as and if are available for a mere pittance. Time will test the accuracy of the remark by a leading banker who, when asked why were buying securities during these recent dismal sessions, replied:

"The rich men of 1925."

In the circumstances, the man with a sound, job-creating program of production is infinitely more socially useful than routineers who content themselves by repeating fallacious generalities.

Senator Peter Norbeck, chairman of the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency, which has been digging into questionable Wall street operations, told me he recognized that such an inquiry would have been of greater value before the debacle. However, he said that the Senate was not in the mood "to rock the boat" while the boom was on.

Asked what, if any, constructive results would come from the present hearings, which so consistently make the front page, the Senator from North Dakota replied:

"The value is largely educational. The evidence constitutes a warning to the public to be on its guard. I realize that Congress cannot legislate legitimate business risks out of existence, but the public can insist on honest statements and on honest dealings."

Steel Trade Efforts To Stabilize Prices Meet With Success

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE STEEL INDUSTRY has made an outstanding success of its campaign to stabilize prices. A few weeks ago producers started on a crucial struggle. Wage and salary reductions had just been announced. The previous reduction had been passed on to consumers in the form of lower prices. If the industry was to make any progress toward reducing deficits reported for the first quarter, it would have to stand by its guns on prices.

At first there was much doubt about the ability of steel companies to resist the desire for large orders and to maintain prices. But the results of the struggle have been good indications of the position taken by the sales departments . . . most organizations. Prices have been stabilized.

Large losses in the first quarter undoubtedly had much to do with the desire to stabilize the market for steel. But the fact remains that the industry appears to have established a definite bottom. For the first time since the final months of 1929 the producers have made price announcements and have stood by them.

Prices Advanced on Some Steel Products

AS A RESULT of the success of the first move to improve the price situation, advances are under consideration on third quarter business. Independent sheet makers are expected to announce increases of $1 a ton. If these companies show sufficient indications that they mean what they say the United States Steel Corporation and the industry in general will follow.

The recently announced advances of $2 a ton on bars, slabs and billets undoubtedly was an important influence toward creating the desire for higher finished steel prices, since the operating margin of mills which do not produce their own steel was materially reduced.

Attitude of Buyers Generally Favorable

SOME CONSUMERS of steel products made an attempt to oppose the attempts to stabilize prices, but the great majority of users took a friendly attitude toward the purposes of the steel industry and did not make concerted attempts to break down the stand of the mills. In most cases it was obvious from the income accounts of the steel companies that further price reductions would seriously undermine their financial positions. The effect upon business in general of financial difficulties on the part of major steel companies would be great. This had much to do with the forebearance of the consumers.

Steel production still is dragging along at a rate slightly above the low point for the year. The recent wage cut and the favorable result secured in stabilizing prices have greatly improved the future outlook for the industry. It must be realized, however, that these favorable developments will not materially effect second quarter earnings. It will not be until the third and fourth quarters that any improvement can be expected. Even then the effects on earnings will be dependent to a major extent on increases in production.

STUDENTS AID CHARITIES

Girl students nearing graduation at the Griffith Beauty School, 437 Penn avenue, devote several hours a week to giving free hair cuts to children in various charitable institutions throughout the city.

MUTUAL BANKS SHOW GAIN

The mutual savings bank system in the United States has been a tower of strength during the difficult times since 1929, the Index, publication of the New York Trust Company, states.

It is significant that, at a time when public confidence is at a minimum and when individual investors are losing faith in their own judgment, the amount of deposits in mutual savings banks and the number of their depositors have continued to increase, the bank declares.

Out of a total amount of $28,259,205,000 represented by savings deposited in all banks in the country no less than $10,650,866,000 are credited to the mutual savings banks.

Similarly, total resources of the mutual banks have increased year by year since 1880, the first year for which such records are available, the Index states. In that year the total resources amounted to $881,700,000. On January 1, 1931 and 1932, they amounted to $10,585,056,321 and $11,206,875,737 respectively. At the beginning of this year, the mutual savings banks were in the highly satisfactory position of having $1.11 of resources for each $1 of deposits. In commenting on this, the bank says:

"In the face of the tests imposed since 1929, the mutual savings banks have expanded their operations, enhanced their influence and prestige and, at the same time, they demonstrated that the co-operative spirit of mutual helpfulness to which they owe their origin remains vigorously alive."

BANK POSITION GAINS SAYS SURVEY

University of Pittsburgh Says General Trend of Business Is Still Down

Financial conditions improved throughout the country; the real estate business was better in Allegheny County, but the actual volume of general business activity declined. This summarizes the findings of the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Pittsburgh for April.

In most cases statistics for April show that the trend of business was still downward, according to the survey. Figures for the first three weeks of May indicate a further small recession during the current month. Daily production in April both of pig iron and of steel ingots was the lowest since July, 1921, while unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel Corporation on May 1 was the smallest on record. Wholesale prices were lower, declines in many important raw commodities being severe.

MARKET OFF

The stock market fell to new low levels, bonds, except the government issues, were off sharply. The Annalist index of business activity stood at 57.2 (preliminary) in April, compared with 61.6 (final) in March and 78.1 in May, 1931. The drop from March to April was 7.1 per cent, this is the largest decline in any month in the current depression except that from October to November in 1929.

The financial situation, however, showed definite signs of improvement. Bank failures have been almost negligible in recent weeks and hoarded funds are being returned to the banks.

The Federal Reserve banks are extending their policy of easy credit. In connection with this policy, banks that are members of the New York Clearing House Association recently reduced interest rates on corporation and individual deposits to ½ of 1 per cent and rates on deposits of insurance companies and investment houses to 1 per cent. This will tend to encourage removal of funds from New York City to banks in the interior parts of the country where interest rates are higher and where funds are needed for commercial purposes.

VOLUME DECLINES

Business in the Pittsburgh district showed a further curtailment during the past month and statistics for the first half of May indicate no change in the downward trend. The total volume of business in the district, measured by the bureau's composite index, decreased 3.7 per cent, the index falling from 53.5 (semi-final) in March to 5.15 (preliminary) in April. Production of pig iron and steel ingots was severely curtailed during the month and the output of coal and coke was sharply lowered. Traffic on all three rivers increased, but originating tonnage on the railroads serving the district declined almost 9 per cent. Building and construction awards slumped. Employment fell off a little more in April and payrolls were reduced.

Trade at both wholesale and retail in the district held up moderately well during April, although several groups in each classification experienced a poor month. New passenger car registrations increased less than 2.5 per cent whereas a gain of about 40 per cent normally occurs between March and April.

The real estate business in Allegheny County showed the first signs of improvement in many months. Deeds and mortgages placed on record showed a large increase. On the other hand, mortgage foreclosures declined sharply. Commercial failures decreased somewhat but the drop was less than normal. New corporations chartered made a new low record for the month.

RAIL CROSSING ACCIDENTS DECLINE

Fewer Highway Vehicle Mishaps Reported in Past Year Than in 1931

Reports just received by the safety section of the American Railway Association and made public today showed a reduction for the first two months of 1932, compared with the preceding year, in the number of fatalities resulting from accidents at highway grade crossings. Reductions were also reported not only in the number of accidents but also in the number injured.

Accidents at highway grade crossings totaled 681 for the first two-month period, a reduction of 69 compared with the same period in 1931. Fatalities resulting from such accidents totaled 273 in the first two months of 1932, a reduction of 43 compared with the same period in 1931, while persons injured so far in 1932 totaled 750, a reduction of 89 compared with the year before.

For the month of February alone there were 330 accidents at highway grade crossings, a reduction of 24 under February, 1931, while 121 fatalities were reported as caused by those accidents, a decrease of 51 compared with the number for February, 1931. Persons injured in highway grade crossing accidents in February, 1932 totaled 357, compared with 373 in the same month the preceding year.

General Theaters To Stop Transfers

NEW YORK, May 31.—The New York Stock Exchange has received notice from attorneys for receivers of General Theaters Equipment, Inc., that they will not authorize continuance of transfers in this city after the close of business on June 7. Further notice has been received that the transfer agent will be maintained at 327 South La Salle street, Chicago, Ill., and for the time being, the Continental Bank and Trust Company of Chicago will continue to act as registrar. The committee on stock list May 31 will consider the question of striking these voting trust certificates from the list.

Wilcox Oil and Gas Cash Is Increased

NEW YORK, May 31.—H. F. Wilcox, president of the H. F. Wilcox Oil and Gas Company, says in a letter to stockholders that since the end of last year there has been a reduction of $200,000 in the company's bonded debt and a cut of $150,000 in its oank debt. The company, he says, has shown substantial improvement in its working capital position.

1,341 Freight Cars Placed in Service

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Class I railroads of the United States in the first four months of 1932 placed in service 1,341 new freight cars, the car service division of the American Railway Association announced today. The railroads on May 1 this year had 2,812 new freight cars on order, compared with 8,554 on the same day last year.

The railroads also placed in service in the first four months of this year eight new locomotives, compared with 39 in the same period in 1931.

Mexico Cuts Export Duty on All Hides

MEXICO CITY, May 31.—(AP.)—Reduction of the export tax on green and dry cow hides and goatskins was announced today by the Treasury Department. The reduction approximates 50 per cent. Hereafter unfinished goatskins will be taxed 10 centavos per kilo (about 1¼ cents); kid skins, 5 centavos per kilo; green cowhides, 2½ centavos per kilo, and dry cowhides 5 centavos per kilo.

Standard Dividends Show Small Drop

NEW YORK, May 31.—Cash dividend payments by the Standard Oil group of companies for the second quarter will total $46,308,873, says a compilation by Pforzheimer & Co., specialists in oil shares. This total compares with $46,801,053 in the first quarter and $57,843,467 in the second quarter of last year.

World Lead Output Declines in March

NEW YORK, May 31.—World lead production in April totaled 108,620 short tons, compared with 111,524 tons in March and 131,926 tons in April, 1931, according to the American Bureau of Metal Statistics.

5 BANDIT GANG SUSPECTS HELD

Five men, said by police to have planned a series of holdups in the Bellevue district were held today in county jail after a motorist, into whose machine three of them crashed in Forest avenue, Bellevue, caused their arrest late Saturday.

Riding in an alleged stolen auto, the trio fled after striking the car of Harry Hammond, of 555 Highland avenue, Bellevue, police said. Pursued by Hammond and W. Davis, of 190 Summit avenue, they are alleged to have drawn revolvers and escaped.

From the description given by Hammond, Lieut. Price McPherson and Patrolman Fred Dauber arrested Charles Fledeer, 25, of New York, in Avalon a short time later. Fledger named William Crain, 25, and Thomas Nagle, 25, both of New York, as his companions, police said.

Crain, Nagel and Edward Rickerard, of 3116 Shadeland avenue, were arrested in a houseboat in Woods Run. William White, of 3042 Greble avenue, in whose home police said the men told them they had planned several robberies, also was held.

They will be given a hearing tonight before Justice of the Peace Elmer T. Greiner, of Bellevue.

Girls Appreciated More When They Are Hard to Get

Does it pay to call the boys up? To angle for dates? To tell 'em how crazy you are about 'em?

Brown Eyes is beginning to suspect it doesn't—that the young gentleman on whom she has been practicing this technique is growing cooler—fast.

So she's [illegible] tips on how to [illegible] give male [illegible] them.

"Dear Sally Martin:

"Please help me. You told [illegible] I need a thrill from [illegible] and I need it a lot.

"I had a [illegible] young man for the last [illegible] years, and I am deeply [illegible] with him. He knows [illegible]

"I had a date with him one night, but he has never asked me out since then. Once I set a definite date to be with another girl, and to make sure of my house to play bridge, but he called me up and told me he had to work. That was a Sunday night.

"One other night I had occasion to take a ride with him with some other girls. The rest of the girls went where we had planned to go, but I asked him if I could talk to him awhile. It thrills me so to be near him, and he approved.

"In the meantime he tried to kiss me, but I didn't let him. He suggested a different parking place as many people passed by where we were. I agreed. Again he tried to kiss me, but still I wouldn't give in. Do I do right in so doing, considering I do love him?

PASSES NEARBY

"I have called him up several times, and I asked him to come to see me where I work. He promises to do so, but has not shown up. He passes by where I work every night after leaving his own job. Does all this mean that he doesn't care for me?

"What can I do to make him know that he is the only one I ever will care for, or ever have cared for? He does not attend parties or other places where a lot of boys and girls play games. He doesn't dance. He cares [illegible]

Many Social Leaders Lifted from Humbler Ranks by Marriage, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

The friend of a social leader observed how cordially this woman always treated all the girls she met, regardless of their family connections.

Remarking upon this, the clever hostess explained that she deemed it wise to do so, because, who a girl happened to be was not nearly so important as who she might become.

Marriage can instantly change a girl's comparatively obscure social position to one of first importance.

Not a few of the great ladies who are in the social whirl of various cities were recruited from the humbler ranks by romance and marriage.

Since a wife takes her husband's rating, the more important a girl's marriage may be the less she need consider or rely upon her own family connections.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Don't Teach Children to Dislike Healthful Foods

One of the saddest sights we see is a child that is undernourished and underweight. While it seems unbelievable in this present day of scientific study we cannot deny the fact that many children are definitely underweight and show signs of malnutrition.

Dr. Copeland

Confronted with these facts it is natural to conclude that they can be traced to lack of money with which to purchase the proper food, but this is not always true. Often it is because the wrong kind of food is given, or because the child is permitted to exercise his own choice of food or to refuse the food he should have.

Children displaying such symptoms come from the homes of the very poor and the very rich. In the homes of the very poor where there is a lack of sufficient and proper food, the children are the first to suffer.

Many wealthy children show signs of undernourishment not because proper and adequate food cannot be obtained, but simply because they are permitted to pick and choose their food according to taste rather than their needs.

Undernourished children are underweight. They are irritable and tire easily. Their posture is poor and digestion faulty. The skin is dry and the hair is coarse and brittle. They are readily susceptible to infectious diseases and contract all the ailments to which they are exposed.

Lack of appetite and a dislike for certain foods are other causes of undernourishment in children. When important foods like milk and vegetables are omitted from the diet, undernourishment results, and to overcome this it is necessary to create a desire for the essential foods.

Many children dislike milk which is indeed unfortunate because milk is one of the most important foods. It is essential for every child, but its use should not be forced. Never scold or punish a child who refuses milk for a child who has been punished for not drinking milk acquires an intense dislike for this food.

Spinach is another food that many children dislike because of unpleasant associations. When first served it may have been improperly cooked and unpalatable. Spinach is delicious only when properly prepared. Be sure it is thoroughly cleaned and cooked for 15 to 20 minutes, then the addition of butter and a pinch of salt makes this nutritious dish inviting.

Adults should never discuss food in the presence of children, for they are easily influenced and imitate their elders, and if a parent voices his dislike for a certain food, the child will undoubtedly develop a dislike for it.

Surveys have shown that the healthiest child usually comes from a home where it is recognized that good food is necessary for building strong bones and muscles. Please bear in mind that vital food substances are of value only when properly digested, and that food that is forced causes indigestion, lack of appetite and undernourishment.

Correct Manners

A Recommendation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I had occasion recently to write a recommendation, and this is the form that I used:

To whom it may concern:

This is to certify that John Doe, etc.

There was considerable criticism of the phrase "This is to certify." What is your opinion?

A.

Although this isn't necessarily incorrect, nowadays usually we do not use those phrases when we write a letter of recommendation.

What we do is to write the address, our address, on the top of the sheet, and then begin the letter.

John Doe has been in my em-[illegible] As you see, in this way the two phrases are taken for granted.

Tea-Wagon Service

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Will you kindly give me your opinion as to whether or not it is in good keeping to use a tea wagon as a table?

2. After spending an evening playing cards, is it perfectly permissible to set four places around the tea wagon and from it eat our salad, coffee and dessert?

M.

1. If the tea-wagon is convenient for the kind of service that you are planning, there isn't any reason why you shouldn't use it.

2. Yes.

Contract Bridge -:-

OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Futile Strategy

The clever strategy employed by experts often baffles the best efforts of less skilled bidders or players, but when equally able pairs are opposed it is most interesting to observe their tactics. The hands held in the deal shown below afforded most interesting tactics both in contracting and in play.

Z made an opening bid of 1-Diamond upon a hand of one probable trick above average. A held a hand easily worth as dealer an opening demand bid. It was the rubber game, so that neither side could afford to take anything beyond business chances. A knew that he faced skilled feature showers for adversaries and he had in mind two objects: first he wanted to shut out feature showing; next he wanted to make such a display of strength on his initial declaration as to obtain support upon very little in case his partner held any semblance of strength. He knew that an attempt to pre-empt after an adverse declaration has been made is nearly always useless; if third hand would assist over a low bid he also will assist over any attempt to shut him out. A held no false visions about making a slam after the other side had made an opening bid; such an event is of too rare occurrence to consider seriously as probable. To accomplish his aims, if at all possible, A jumped into a bid of 4-Hearts.

Y held visions of an almost certain game with slam probabilities. He did not bid 5-Diamonds; thus terminating contracting. Nor did he make a blind stab at something better, by bidding 6-Diamonds. He made the very useful bid of 5-Hearts, to show no losers of that suit, with very powerful support for his partner's opening make. Of course he knew that his partner or he must ultimately either bid 6-Diamonds or double A in case he ventured a slam declaration.

B passed. Z did not increase the contract when he replied 5-Spades, but he did show the ace of the suit named, for all he knew A might have made a desperation bid. A passed. Y showed his Ace of clubs by bidding 6-Clubs. That was harmless. Y would have had to bid 6-Diamonds otherwise. His club bid might possibly be the one thing required for his partner to see a grand slam. Z had nothing more to show. His bid of 6-Diamonds was doubled by A, ending contracting.

A knew that he would be wasting an opportunity if he made an opening lead of his hearts as Y had plainly shown voidness of that suit. A felt that his best chance to beat the contract was to lead his K of spades, hoping that both opponents held two losers of that suit, or perhaps one losing spade and one losing club. It is not always the best opening lead against a slam to lay down an ace. As can readily be seen, Y was able to ruff two losing spades and Z could ruff three losing clubs for the dummy, causing them to lose only one spade trick and fulfill their doubled small slam contract, but A did his best, both in bidding and play to prevent a slam score.

SPORT COMMENT

Drop Not Due to Slump. Position Means Little Giants After Packard. Big Year for Whiffs. Thorpe Man of Size. Michigan Gets Diver.

TOP TO CELLAR, ONLY EIGHT GAMES

THOUGH THE STANDING of the clubs in the National League today showed that the Pirates had been muscled out of the first division by the Dodgers, the drop didn't mean that the Buccaneers were skidding. The margin of difference was only a single percentage point, and the shift was due to a spurt by the Cards, who have won six of their last seven and nine of their last 12 games, rather to a falling off on the part of the locals. Stretching their streak to 12 out of the last 17, the Rovers have done all that could be reasonably expected in winning three out of five since being deprived of the services of Pie Traynor, whose absence means a heavy loss not only in playing strength, but also in spirit and inspiration.

Pie Traynor

Anyhow, position in the National League standing right now doesn't count for a lot, the clubs being so close bunched that a day or two may change everything. The race is one of the closest and most open in years. The Gibsons in fifth place are only five and a half games behind the leading Cubs. The distance from top to bottom, the margin separating the first-place and eight-place clubs, is only eight box scores. In the American League there are 10 games between the first and sixth clubs, and the tailenders are 20 games behind the leaders. The decision still goes easily to the National as the better balanced league.

THE RUMOR PERSISTS that Frank Packard, Pittsburgh boy who has been playing great ball for Baltimore in the International League, will go up to the majors before the season is much farther advanced, and that in all probability he will land with the Giants.

It is no secret that John McGraw has been interested in Packard for some time, and the youngster's continued good hitting, in addition to his fine defensive work at third base and in the outfield, is said to have impressed the Giant pilot so strongly that he may attempt an early deal for the player.

IT LOOKS LIKE a big season for strikeouts in the majors. Carl Hubbell fanned 15 men in a 12-inning game. Vernon Gomez set the nine-inning top at 13, and George Earnshaw, Henry Johnson and Van Mungo each whiffed 12 batters in nine frames.

For 23 years the pitchers have steadily failed to equal the modern major league record for strikeouts in a regulation game. The top mark is 16, and the last to tie it was Nap Rucker, Dodgers, in 1909.

NOODLES HAHN, pitching for the Reds against Boston in 1901, was the first to set the modern record of 16. Christy Mathewson equaled it in 1904, and so did Rube Waddell in 1908. Back in the earlier days, when the pitching distance was only 50 feet, Charley Sweeney, Providence right-hander, struck out 19 in 1884, and one month later this was equaled by Hugh Dailey, of the Chicago Union Leaguers, who had only one arm. Charley Buffington, of the Boston Nationals, and Fred Shaw, of the Boston Unions, each fanned 18 the same year. Toad Ramsey, of Louisville, in the American Association, struck out 17 in 1886, and repeated it in 1887 when the four-strike rule was in force.

Bob Smith

WHEN THE BRAVES infield became definitely set with Shires, Maranville, Urbanski and Knothe, Bill Akers, talkative shortstop, found himself with little to do. So one day he volunteered to pitch to the batters in practice. Soon he was doing this daily, and he has looked so good throwing them in that Manager Bill McKechnie is considering the advisability of turning him into a pitcher.

Akers, up before with the Tigers as a shortstop, has always been an infielder except for one brief stay in the outfield, but that can't be counted as a bar to his success as a pitcher. Bob Smith, of the Cubs, was carried as infielder for two seasons by the Braves before becoming a pitcher in 1925, and Mark Koenig, also a former infielder, was converted into a hurler before the Tigers sent him to the Coast League.

SPEAKING OF INFIELDERS being made over into pitchers, the Dartmouth College team presents an odd instance. Tommy Maskileson, varsity shortstop, may win a berth as a twirler as a result of a wager with Coach Jeff Tesreau, former Giant flinger.

Maskileson, who has always wanted to step into the pitcher's box, declared he could defeat the Indian varsity if given a chance. Tesreau took the dare, and though facing Bob Miller, sophomore ace on the mound, Maskileson turned back the Dartmouth regulars in a nine-inning game, 7 to 6.

BEFORE JIM THORPE came into the majors in 1913 as a member of the Giants he had verbally accepted an offer from Pittsburgh. The New York bid was higher, but did the red man grab it, or try to play both ends against the middle? He did not. He came right to Pittsburgh, called at the office of Barney Dreyfuss, told him that he had received an offer from New York, but was ready to keep his word and sign with Pittsburgh, even though it would mean a financial loss to him. Not wishing to take advantage of the situation or the previous agreement, the Pirate president complimented Thorpe on his honorable and conscientious course, released him from his promise and told him to accept the New York proposal, which was more than he felt Pittsburgh could offer.

NOW THE SPORTSMANSHIP of Thorpe is being shown again from a different angle. Presumably at the request of some of the amateur athletic powers, he is to serve as one of the speakers and hustlers on a western barnstorming tour to raise Olympic funds.

After Jim had become the outstanding athlete of the world as the hero of the 1912 Olympic Games in Stockholm, they found that he had once received a couple of dollars for playing baseball in a trolley league, whereupon they took all his medals and trophies away from him. Today he is proving himself a real sport by ignoring that old score and helping the organization that stripped him of his honors.

DERLAND JOHNSTON, 16-year-old P. A. A. diving star, and lone local aspirant to Olympic aquatic honors probably will matriculate at the University of Michigan in September. Johnston has been in Ann Arbor since the first of last week, working out with the Wolverine swimmers before leaving for Pasadena.

In Pasadena he will compete in the national senior high-board diving championship event, which this year carries the additional lasting of Olympic trial. The youngster, a recent graduate of Carrick High School, already holds the national junior indoor high-board title, a distinction achieved at the Indianapolis A. C. last winter.

Derland Johnston

JOHNSTON HAS CAPTURED about all the district diving laurels of consequence the last two seasons. According to Coach DeWitt Hyatt, of the Winged Head team, the youthful Olympic contender has made a distinct hit with the Ann Arbor tank instructors, who predict that he will demand serious consideration in the Pacific Coast tests. Johnston himself is much taken with the Michigan institution, which goes for its swimming team in a big way. It is likely, therefore, that by the time another campaign has passed, the talented young Pittsburgher will be supplementing A. A. U., interscholastic Y. M. C. A. and perhaps Olympic honors with laurels won in varsity intercollegiate competition.

GENEVA KEEPS CONFERENCE CROWN

By JESS CARVER

Pitt has a new faculty member, head of what practically is a new department, in Dr. H. C. Carlson, who always will be remembered as one of the university's most gifted football ends and one of the leading basketball coaches of the country.

Dr. Carlson

Chancellor John G. Bowman today announced the appointment of Dr. Carlson as head of the student health service at Pitt. He will remain as head basketball coach and will be assisted by Dr. George Kovalis, former freshman court mentor and one of Dr. Carlson's brightest stars.

The new health department of the university will have its quarters in the right wing of the Falk Clinic. Installed in this wing the scrappy Braddock fire-top will find himself in the right wing for the first time. He's been a left winger all his life.

FINE PSYCHOLOGIST

Pitt authorities are confident that the appointment of Dr. Carlson as head of the student health bureau will stimulate student interest not only in physical well-being but in all branches of athletics. Carlson in handling his basketball teams, which annually rank with the best in the nation, has applied psychology until it has hurt. He is a firm believer in practical psychology three times a day and in between meals if possible.

The noted redhead has been a successful practicing physician in Braddock for the past 10 years. He played football and basketball while an undergraduate, assisted Pop Warner as a football coach in 1918 and handled the freshmen in 1922, '23, '24, '25, '26, '27 and '28. He became head basketball coach in 1922 and will remain as long as the Panthers need him. He was chosen as an all-America end on Walter Eckersall's team in 1917.

GENEVA WINS MEET

Geneva made it eight in a row in capturing the annual Tri-State Conference track and field championship at Reeves Stadium, Beaver Falls, yesterday afternoon. The Covenanters, who have held the conference title ever since said conference was a mere pup, piled up 89.7 points against 40.6 for Waynesburg, 34.7 for Westminster, 13 for Grove City, 4 for Bethany and 1 for Thiel.

The Genevans piled up 10 first places to four for Westminster and three for Waynesburg. Four conference records went to smash, the veteran Slim Ransom, of Geneva, setting a new mark in the pole vault at 11 feet 11 inches. Harry Brownlee hurling the hammer 167 feet 8½ inches, Spencer, of Geneva, high-jumping 6 feet 4⅝ inches and Willis, of Waynesburg, winning a thrilling half-mile race in 2 minutes 6-10 second.

Brownlee captured the individual high score award with a total of 16 points, leading Fair Thomas, Geneva's Negro sprint star, by a point. Brownlee won the high hurdles, hammer and took second in the discus and low hurdles. Thomas won the 100, 220 and 440.

PIRATES SPLIT HOLIDAY BILL WITH REDS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

A well muddled race had developed in the National League today as its eight entries swept past the traditional Memorial Day milestone.

From the cellar position the classy Giants are able to reach up to the parapet and lay hold of the first-place Cubs and this dear fans is quite a trick when one considers the six contenders over which the New Yorkers must reach to get a toe-hold on the Bruins. It's tougher than vaulting over a row of barrels on a pair of skates, but it's being done these days.

Heinie Meine

As Sir William Klem, champion of umpires, remarked to this writer yesterday, "it's anybody's race, and may the best team win."

Kem made the welkin ring with that short speech. It's anybody's race, and your guess, Mr. Grandstand Manager, is just as good as that of any wiseacre of baseball.

TITLE RACE CLOSE

The holiday festivities served to scramble the situation even more intensely than it was jammed before the big day arrived. The sliding scale of the eight clubs is so arranged that in the event of a little spurt on the part of one John J. McGraw and this celebrated cellar occupant would be the tenant of one of the favored suites in Mr. Heydler's big boarding house.

When the season got under way, it was felt that Heydler had two or three star boarders, but the spectacle of the Giants and World Champion Cardinals flirting with the coal hole quite persistently indicates that times have changed.

Meantime, our Pirates are holding their own and hoping for even better things. They managed to split even in four hot battles at Chicago and the Oakland Orchard over the holiday period. They dropped the first and won the second in competition with the Reds on the home lot yesterday; in Chicago on Sunday they were hooked in the opener, but came through in the nightcap.

The finale with the Reds is on for this afternoon. Larry French is Manager Gibson's choice, provided his arm be O. K. Dan Howley, boss of the invaders, states that Red Lucas, his star right-hander, will be on the slab. Tomorrow is an open date in the schedule of both teams.

SWIFT BEATS REDS

The superfine pitching of Bill Swift and the de luxe batting of "them Waner boys," made it possible for the Buccos to stage a fifty-fifty show yesterday. Beaten, 4 to 2, by Eppa Rixey in the morning scrap, the Buccos came back like champs, with Swift up, in the afternoon frolic. The score of the home victory was 5 to 2. Eleven thousand came out for the afternoon game. The early fight was witnessed by 7,000.

The early contest saw the debut of Heinie Meine. Pie Traynor grounded out as he batted for Harris in the seventh with the bases loaded and two out. Meine then went to the slab. The Crown Prince of Luxemburg had the bases jammed with none out in the ninth, but he made Lombardi ground into a double play and Heinie retired without having been scored upon.

Swift was a bit off his stride in the first inning, but he found his best pace in the second round. From the second to the seventh inclusive, nary a Red of fame or obscurity was able to reach base; in other words, Kansas City Bill twirled six perfect innings in a row. He was found for a total of only five hits. The Pirates, on the

CHISOX PREXY BACKS STARS

CLEVELAND, May 31.—(AP.)—While George Moriarty, hard-fisted American League umpire, nursed his bruises in seclusion, four battling members of the Chicago White Sox today received assurances from Harry Grabiner, vice president of the Chicago club, that they would be "backed to the limit."

Grabiner arrived here from Chicago this morning to investigate yesterday's "Battle of the Runway" between Moriarty and Manager Lew Fonseca, Milt Gaston, Charley Berry and Frank Grube.

Moriarty, who as a player in the old rough and tumble era of baseball, took a decision from the capable Ty Cobb, scored a knockout over Milt Gaston, Sox pitcher, but went down under the assault of superior numbers in a fight at the conclusion of yesterday's double-header at League Park.

"I am going to defend the players and manager to the limit," Grabiner said this morning following a talk with Fonseca and the Sox.

"From what I learn, I feel they have been done an injustice. We've had trouble with Umpire Moriarty before, and we are not going to let our men be shoved around continually without making a comeback. I regret the incident very much, but I have been given to understand that Moriarty was the aggressor."

President Alva Bradley, of the Indians, whose players rescued Moriarty with the help of several policemen, had a different opinion.

"OUTRAGE," BRADLEY SAYS

"It was an outrage," he declared, "for a group of young men, perfectly trained athletes, to jump on a man of Moriarty's age (Moriarty is 47). That sort of thing has no place in baseball, and I shall certainly take it up with President Harridge in emphatic terms."

William Harridge, president of the American League, and Tom Connally, dean of the league's umpires, are due here this afternoon.

Moriarty said he was ready to officiate at today's game between the Sox and the Indians. An X-ray examination at the hospital revealed his right hand was broken, but that injuries to his head were not serious.

GASTON FLOORED

While Moriarty and Bill Dineen, the other umpire, refused to discuss the battle, Indian players, in a report to General Manager Billy Evans, charged that Charley Berry, Sox catcher, challenged Moriarty to fight after accusing the umpire of "missing a strike."

The Cleveland players, Luke Sewell, Howard Shanks and Bruce Connatser, said Moriarty asked them not to hold him back, offering "to fight the whole White Sox team."

"Charley Gaston then stepped up," the Indians said, with: "'You might as well start with me.'" Moriarty struck twice, knocking Gaston to the dressing-room floor and breaking his hand on Gaston's jaw.

PITT TO PLAY AT 'POINT

From West Point, N. Y., comes confirmation of the report that the Pitt-Army football game of next fall has been transferred from the Yankee Stadium, New York, to the home of the United States Military Academy at West Point.

The Army schedules a big game at home each year. Last year, Harvard played there.

Persons attending the game have the opportunity of viewing the Saturday inspection and review of the Corps of Cadets on the parade ground, as well as visiting the various historic and interesting points on the reservation.

Pitt and Army began their football relations with the game played at the Pitt Stadium last fall.

U. S. CUP STARS ROUT ANZACS

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—(AP.)—America's challengers for the Davis Cup completed their rout of the Australians in the North American zone final by winning the two singles events which remained yesterday and sending the visitors home without one victory in the five-match tournament.

Frank X. Shields, in brilliant form, turned back Jack Crawford, Australian ace, in a duel that went the full five sets. Then H. Ellsworth Vines defeated Harry Hopman, droping only one set on the way and that a 20-game affair, 6-2, 9-11, 6-4, 6-4.

Shields beated Hopman in the singles Friday and Vines had conquered Crawford. When John Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison triumphed over Crawford and Hopman at doubles Saturday it placed yesterday's events in the light of exhibitions.

The Shields-Crawford encounter resulted in a 6-4, 7-5, 4-6, 3-6, 6-2 win for the U. S. star.

The 5-to-0 sweep of Australia leaves the United States with its 1932 Davis Cup slate unblemished at is prepares to meet Brazil at Forest Hills, L. I., next month. The Americans dropped not a match in their previous encounters with Canada and Mexico.

LOCAL POLOISTS WIN TOURNEY

Under an avalanche of Pittsburgh tallies, the Iroquois Polo Club, of Lexington, Ky., yesterday wound up on the short end of a 13-to-5 count in the third and concluding match of the three-game tournament with the Pittsburgh Polo Club riders, losing the series.

The locals piled up a commanding lead in the first, third and fifth chukkers, mainly through the weak defensive play of the Kentucky squad. Dave McCahill stifled their scoring ambitions by lifting one from the 40-yard line that sailed between the uprights 20 feet above the ground. The lineup:

FRAME VICTOR IN INDIANAPOLIS AUTO RACE

VETERAN SETS NEW RECORD FOR GRIND

INDIANAPOLIS, May 31.—(AP.)—With death defying speed, Fred Frame, of Los Angeles, roared to victory in the twentieth international 500-mile automobile race over the Indianapolis speedway yesterday, leaving a string of broken records in the wake of his tiny, gray-painted, eight-cylinder racer.

Frame, a 37-year-old driver with 10 years of racing experience behind him, smashed all existing records for the 500-mile race when he bounced his little racer over the finishing line in triumph. He covered the 500 miles in 4:48:03.79, to average 104.144 miles an hour, breaking the former record of 101.13 established by Peter Depaolo in winning the 1925 classic.

WILCOX SECOND

Less than 44 seconds back of Frame came Howdy Wilcox, Indianapolis youngster, driving his first major race, to finish second. Cliff Bergere, of Los Angeles, a former movie stunt man in flying and automobile crackups, finished third, about 2½ miles back of Wilcox. Bob Carey, a Hoosier from Anderson, was fourth with Russell Snowberger, of Philadelphia, fifth. Zeke Meyer, of Philadelphia, was sixth and Ira Hall, of Terre Haute, Ind., was seventh.

Only 14 of the original 40 starters survived the strenuous competition of nerve, mechanical stamina and daring speed.

Billy Arnold, young Chicagoan and one of the favorites, escaped dashing to death just as he did a year ago, when his car, speeding more than 100 miles an hour, crashed into the high retaining wall on the dangerous north turn, torpedoed to the top of the banked turn and hung there, a tangled wreck.

ARNOLD ESCAPES DEATH

Arnold miraculously escaped with a broken collar bone, while his mechanic, Spider Matlock, of Chicago, sustained a broken pelvis bone.

The only foreign invader, Juan Guadino, of Buenos Aires, met with complete failure. The dashing young South American was forced to surrender, after his car, an American-built eight-cylinder, developing trouble from the start, had traveled only 175 miles.

By his triumphs, Frame finds himself in a position to cash in about $250,000. He received $20,000 as first prize.

HORSE SHOW ENTRY HEAVY

Additional entries for the annual Allegheny Country Club horse show, which will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the Sewickley ring, have been announced by the show committee. The three-day exhibition, in which more than 200 animals will be shown, is being staged for the benefit of the unemployed of the county.

FIGHT RESULTS

At London—Larry Gains defeated Primo Carnera, 10 rounds.

At Louisville—Frankie Palmo defeated Bob Roberts, 10 rounds.

At Huntington, Ark.—K. O. Young, Siloam, defeated Johnny Freeman, 10 rounds.

BRITISH GOLF CHAMP TOPS MRS. VARE

SAUNTON, England, May 31.—(AP.)—Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, five times American champion, was defeated by Enid Wilson, defending British titleholder, in the third round of the British women's golf championship today, 4 and 2.

It was Mrs. Vare's sixth invasion of Britain, none of which has succeeded. One year she was stymied by the railroad strike and did not arrive in time to play her match, being forfeited.

Joyce Wethered, England's greatest woman player, stopped Mrs. Vare's march on three occasions, and on her last visit, in 1930, she was defeated by Diana Fishwick, an English unknown then, in the final round.

Mrs. Vare was not on her game today and was nine over par for the 16 holes of the match.

MRS. CHENEY ADVANCES

Mrs. Leona Cheney, the former Mrs. Pressler, of Los Angeles, defeated Doris Park, fine English match player, 1 up, to leave the United States with one representative among the last eight.

Miss Wilson played great golf to put out the former American champion making few mistakes.

The British champion, large and strongly built, plays as slashing a game as a man, and with Mrs. Vare, Virginia Van Wie and Molly Gourlay put out of play today, is an overwhelming favorite to retain her title.

Mrs. Cheney meets Miss B. M. Brown, of Formby, Lancaster champion six times, in the fourth round tomorrow.

MISS VAN WIE LOSES

Miss Van Wie lost to Susie Tolhurst, Australian champion, in a 19-hole match in the second round this morning while Mrs. Vare was disposing of Mrs. John Challen, of England, 5 and 4, and Mrs. Cheney was winning over Jean Hamilton, of England, 4 and 3. It was Miss Hamilton who provided the sensation of the tournament yesterday by eliminating Maureen Orcutt, the New Jersey golfer, who posted low scores in the qualifying rounds.

Miss Tolhurst went out of the tournament in the third round, losing to Mrs. J. M. Clarke, of England, 2 up.

An upset in the British ranks occurred when Mrs. J. B. Watson, veteran tournament player, was defeated by Miss Purvis Russell, Montgomery, 4 and 3.

Wanda Morgan, seemingly a certain finalist, continued her advance by downing Mrs. B. Radford, 4 and 3.

GAINS TO SEEK TITLE BOUT

LONDON, May 31.—(INS.)—Larry Gains, Toronto Negro, who holds the British empire heavyweight title and who, last night, overwhelmed Primo Carnera, Italian giant here, declared today he hoped to get a bout soon with either Jack Sharkey or Max Schmeling.

Jeff Dickson, promoter of last night's 10-round affair, stood beside Gains and declared this was not unlikely.

Gains got the decision over Carnera after 10 rounds of fast work, which left the Italian puzzled. In the tenth, fans howled as Gains chased the giant around the ring.

Carnera was at a loss after his blows failed to stop Gains, who wove in and out about Carnera's guard, hitting almost at will. Gains was fast and hit hard. In the second and sixth rounds, Gains' blows were unusually effective and would have knocked out many a fighter of less size than Carnera. Lefts and rights to the jaw were fast and frequent, and the Italian rocked under them.

A crowd of 70,000, setting a new British attendance record at a boxing bout, witnessed the battle.

City Title Series Under Way Today

Westinghouse, champion of Section I, and Allegheny, champion of Section II, usher in their series for the city scholastic championship at Greenlee Field this afternoon.

The second game will be played Friday, and the third game, if necessary, next Tuesday. All games will be played at Greenlee Field and will get under way at 4 o'clock.

Allderdice, City Section tennis champion, meets Mt. Lebanon, Suburban Section champion, on the Pitt courts today. The winner will get the city championship.

EDSON ANNEXES BYERS TROPHY AT ALLEGHENY

By TOM BIRKS

Bennett Edson, with a net 72, won the feature golf event of the holiday, the Eben M. Byers memorial trophy contested for at the Allegheny Country Club yesterday afternoon. Edson had a medal score of 88 which, with a 16 handicap, gave him a 72. He was presented with a replica of the trophy, which is to be played for annually.

W. R. Blair, Jr., H. T. Erwin, E. L. Craig, Jr., and F. E. Richardson tied for second place, each having a net 73. A large field turned out for the event.

Banner crowds of golfers took advantage of ideal golfing weather to celebrate the holiday at all clubs.

The Western Pennsylvania Women's Golf Association will hold the spotlight today, holding its second one-day tourney of the season at the Oakmont Country Club. There is every reason to feel that the largest field of the season will line up to explore the Hulton terrain.

TIGERS ADVANCE

YANKS, GIANTS MACKS WIN DUAL BILLS

Associated Press

The Detroit Tigers are getting better pitching and hitting than any of their western neighbors have slipped back into second place in the American League a half game ahead of the faltering Washington Senators.

The fact almost unnoticed in the turmoil of yesterday's Memorial double-headers is eclipsed of the fighting qualities of Buck Harris' team. Off to a flying flying start, the Tigers set a fast pace in the opening weeks of the campaign and were leading the league until they made their first trip East.

Heavy hitting won yesterday's first game from the St. Louis Browns, 17 to 9, and right pitching by Tom Bridges took the second, 6 to 0.

It took the assistance of the Philadelphia Athletics to plant the Browns in second place. The Macks trimmed Washington twice, 13 to 2 and 8 to 6, before 40,000 fans at Shibe Park.

The Yankees decorated a memorial to their former leader, Miller Huggins, and fattened their league lead with a brace of victories over the Red Sox, 7 to 5 and 13 to 3. The Cleveland Indians beat Chicago twice, 12 to 6 and 12 to 11.

The Boston Braves' pennant hopes suffered a severe jolt as they dropped two decisions to the Giants. Carl Hubbell southpawed them into submission, 6 to 2, in the opener, and a two-run Giant rally in the tenth decided the nightcap, 4 to 2.

Rogers Hornsby helped the Chicago Cubs divide their double bill with St. Louis. After the Cardinals had driven Burleigh Grimes from the box to win the first tilt, 10 to 4, the Cubs pilot hit a home run and a double off Tex Carleton to help take the nightcap, 6 to 2. Two Brooklyn pitchers, Watson Clark and young Van Mungo, turned in sterling games as the Dodgers swept their bill with the Phillies, 13 to 4 and 5 to 3.

Buck McTiernan once more the flaxen pride of Swissvale will be on a keen fighting edge when he meets Tommy Freeman of Cleveland, the former welterweight champion in their return bout at Hickey Park, Millvale, Thursday night. Buck and his trainer Peaches Gallagher are seeing to that.

When Buck went into the gym at the Pittsburgh Lyceum last Saturday and began to work he felt stale. Couldn't get going. No enthusiasm for the work in hand. So he quit right in the middle of the drill and called it a day and also laid off completely on Sunday. Yesterday he was back at the grind again, working like a beaver and feeling like the proverbial million bucks instead of only one Buck McTiernan. He'll have his final hard session today and tomorrow he will taper off. The weight for the bout is 160 pounds and he'll be well under it.

WANTS TO EVEN SCORE

McTiernan has a crow to pick with Freeman. They met the first time at the Meyers Bowl in May of last year and McTiernan fighting one of his few good bouts of a bad year really bested the former champion, flooring him for a count in one of the middle rounds but the judges disagreed and the referee's vote decided in favor of Freeman. McTiernan feels Freeman is one gent he can beat any time he's anywhere near right and he'll be out to demonstrate this fact Thursday night on top of his recent fine comeback victory over Jack Wilson in the same ring.

With the Jackie Fields-Ted Yarosz bout at the Meyers Bowl scheduled for tonight called off, the Hickey Park show is the only one here this week and it figures to draw the best gate of the three cards offered in the Millvale arena to date. Three six-round bouts and a four-rounder make up the preliminary card.

Mickey Duris of Johnstown and Tommy Bland of Canada box the main bout of a show in Johnstown tonight.

WOLGAST NEXT AT BOWL

Burying its disappointment over the collapse of its Jackie Fields bout, the Meyers Bowl management is setting the stage for its second show, to be held next Monday night, featuring Midget Wolgast, the flyweight champion, against Tiny Tony Marino, of Duquesne, in the main bout, and including three other 10-round battles. Jack Kilbourne, Chicago middleweight, returns against Angel Chiville, of Porto Rico, and Tony Herrera meets Eddie (Kid) Wolfe, of Memphis, in two of the underline attractions, and the opener remains to be arranged.

other hand, were able to solve Larry Benton frequently.

WANERS STAR AGAIN

Two singles by Crabtree and Herman in the first inning gave the Reds their first tally. The Waner boys pried off the home fireworks with a single and a double. Lloyd scored on Paul's smash and the latter rolled to third on a bad toss to the plate. Vaughan's hit tallied Paul. Barbee flied out, but Vaughan stole second. He was nipped on Suhr's drive which Benton knocked down. Gus reached second in the confusion and registered on Piet's single.

Tommy Thevenow, still subbing for Capt. Traynor, opened the fifth with a single. But Tommy was flagged at the plate on Grace's double to right. Swift clicked with a single to score the clever catcher. Lucas batting for Gelbert started the eighth with a double to center. High batted for the Morrisey and fouled out. Singles by Heath and Crabtree scored the run.

Bill Harris reeled off another nice game in the forenoon, but Bill had the misfortune to run into Rixey when Eppa was a hittin' as well as a pitchin' fool. Eppa's three surprising hits sank Harris.

CARLSON GETS PITT POST

day, Willis, of Waynesburg, beat Geneva's highly-touted half-miler Nulton, by a stride in the 880, coming from behind in the last 10 yards to whizz past the astonished Covenanter at the tape. Nulton took a tumble as he lunged over the line.

Joe Beggs, former Aliquippa High star, essayed to set a new mark in the javelin, but the best he could get was 199 feet 3½ inches.

Forbes — We're Getting All Set to Go, Says Insider

By B. C. FORBES

"WE'RE GETTING all set to go."

That comes from the innermost of inner financial circles.

Aggressive actions will be held in abeyance, according to the present program, until Congress has acted definitely upon vital fiscal problems.

Mr. Forbes

This is the first time the real financial powers-that-be have declared frankly that they were prepared to institute forceful leadership. Bonds probably will benefit first.

WHAT HAPPENS to securities, to commodities, to industry, to business, to sentiment in the next few weeks will depend, therefore, mainly on how Congress behaves. Hope grows that the pressure of public opinion will induce reasonable action, with reasonable dispatch.

The manufacturers' sales tax has gained tremendously in favor; passage of it would be acclaimed by a majority of influential men of affairs. Opposition to any and every suggestion of federal funds to meet unemployment emergencies has noticeably decreased; the feeling has spread that private charity will prove inadequate to meet the coming winter's necessities and that in some instances local communities and perhaps certain states may need outside aid.

THE GLIB SLOGAN, "Balance the Budget," has become a fetish. The truth is that conditions have become such that it is now recognized in many responsible directions that it would not ruin either the government or the country were the federal treasury, in good cause, to do exactly what many well-managed corporations are doing, namely, going temporarily into debt in order to keep things moving along half way smoothly.

Nobody took fright at unbalanced budgets during the war. Admittedly, sources of federal tax revenue have sadly shrunk since then; but it isn't easy to understand why the thought of going moderately into debt to cope with the present destructive economic war should precipitate the horror so loudly voiced.

MEANWHILE, THE URGENCY for business-like action by Congress becomes more acute day by day.

It were worse than foolish to blink the fact that things have been going from bad to worse. Domestic bonds, as well as foreign bonds, have sunk to new low levels. All classes of stocks, industrial and rail and utility, dropped to new bottoms before the week ended. In less than three months, average quotations, already ruinously low, have shriveled almost another 50 per cent. Brokers' loans, such has been the slaughter, have dwindled from above $8,500,000,000 to less than $400,000,000, a decline of fully 95 per cent.

Commodities, too, are nearly all dragging at utterly unremunerative price levels, many of them selling for less than at any time since organized markets were established.

Unemployment conditions continue pitifully unsatisfactory. Not only is the wage trend downward, but additional millions of men and women are having their income either lopped off or drastically reduced through the stoppage or halving or quartering of dividend payments, thus seriously aggravating the diminution of purchasing power. Last week was particularly upsetting dividend-wise.

Retail trade shows no real pick-up. Railway traffic continues to melt away. Power consumption falls off, reflecting industrial inactivity.

BUT, WHY ELABORATE? The picture is so palpably bad that even the blindest of misrepresentatives and irresponsible Senators surely cannot longer fail to become profoundly impressed by the need for doing everything possible, and doing it with all possible speed, to renew that most vital of all economic afflictions, uncertainty.

"WE'RE GETTING all set to go."

Gentlemen of Congress, won't you please clear the tracks forthwith.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

STOCKS IGNORE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Market Continues Down After Short-Lived Rally On Hoover's Tax Address

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP.) — After one of the sharpest declines of recent months, the stock market recovered partially for a short time today coincident with President Hoover's message to Congress urging balancing of the budget through economies, the manufacturers' sales tax and government economies.

The list slumped 3 points in the morning trading as financial quarters manifested considerable disappointment over the apparent shelving of the sales tax in the Senate, the tax being favored by the Hoover administration. Current weekend trade advices particularly those from the steel industry

United States Steel recovered most of a decline of 1¼ points which had carried it down to 36, American Telephone after declining to 83¾, recovered 2 points. Allied Chemical, American Can, American Tobacco B, Consolidated Gas and Union Pacific recovered about a point after selling off 1 to more than 2 points. These recoveries however were mostly short-lived. Foods, chain stores, chemicals and utilities bore the brunt of the early selling. Declines of 2 to 3 points occurred in such issues as Borden, Corn Products, Peoples Gas, Du Pont, Drug, Penney, Norfolk and Western and others, issues losing 1 to nearly 2 points had included General Electric, Standard of New Jersey, North American, Socony-Vacuum, Loew's, Liggett and Myers B, Sears, Bethlehem and many others.

The selling was again in fairly modest volume but buyers remained extremely cautious in view of the uncertainties surrounding so many aspects of the financial outlook. Vital matters to be dealt with during the month of June include the final action on federal fiscal legislation, the further consideration of federal relief measures and the Lausanne Conference to deal with intergovernmental debts. The Hoover moratorium expires June 30, but the next payments are not due this country until December 15.

The selling showed little change from that of previous sessions. This selling has been attributed in brokerage and banking circles to further liquidation of impaired collateral loans, selling by large estates which have shown severe shrinkage since their values were computed for tax purposes, selling by such investing organizations as fire insurance companies. Bank loans against security collateral have continued to shrink rapidly during the current decline. While the Reserve System has been pursuing its credit expansion plan, some bankers complain that they cannot be very free with loans while there is continued threat of inflation which would permit repayment in depreciated dollars.

Soft Coal Output Declines Slightly

WASHINGTON, May 31 — (AP.)—Production of bituminous coal slumped slightly during the week ended May 21 as compared with the previous week. The total output, as reported by the Mines Bureau, follows for comparable periods: Week ended May 21, 4,288,000 tons; previous week, 4,295,000 tons; same week last year, 6,626,000 tons.

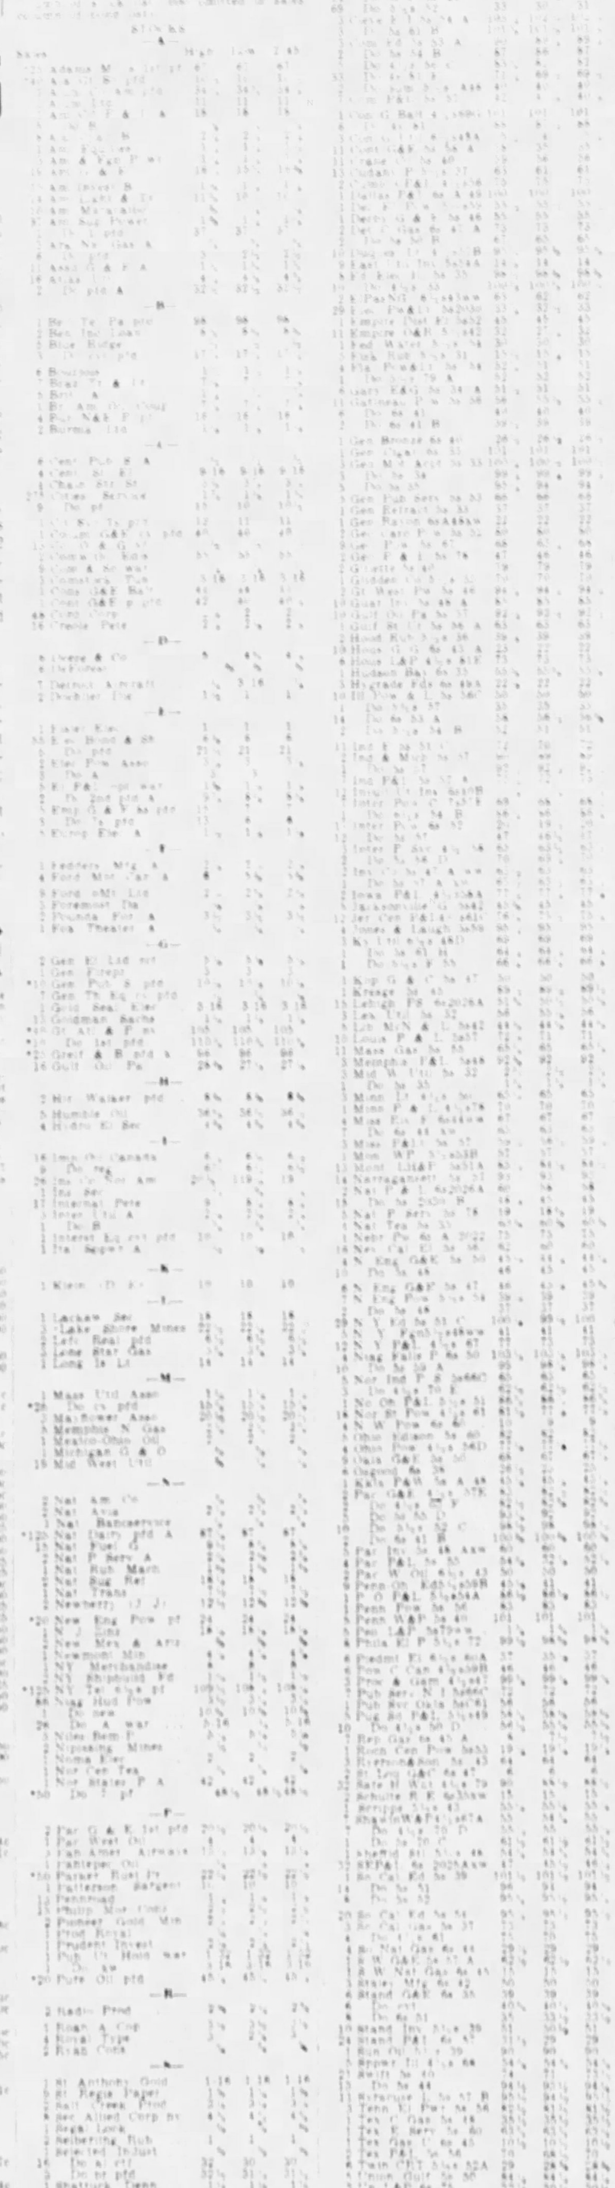
NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, May 31 — Curb Market quotations underwent further contraction in a moderately active session today.



GRAIN PRICES DIP LOWER

CHICAGO, May 31 — Grain prices underwent material setbacks here early today, influenced by sharp downturns in Liverpool wheat quotations. Liverpool reported fear of some financial trouble following the fall of the German cabinet. Opening ⅝ to 1⅛ off, Chicago wheat futures afterward sagged further. Corn started ¼ to ⅜ down and subsequently held near the initial range.

Corn and oats were affected bearishly by railroad reports that a heavier acreage of corn had been planted than was looked for. Provisions eased with grains.

'BEAR' PROBE WIDENED

NEW YORK, May 31 (INS.) — The stock exchange today continued the investigation launched more than a month ago to prove that liquidation and not short selling was responsible for the current drastic decline in stock prices.

In addition to the daily report on short selling members were ordered to file a separate reply giving the total number of accounts short and the geographical location of the bear seller, whether in the United States or abroad.

The latter was designed to determine the source of the selling to check on recent reports of sizeable orders from Europe. The report is to be made as of the close today and must be filed by June 7.

Securities Strong On Berlin Boerse

BERLIN, May 31 — (AP.) — While President Von Hindenburg was casting about today for a new cabinet, the boerse showed strength. Leading shares improved 3 to 7 points.

In banking circles it was said the upswing had been overdone but there was no fear of inflation.

The close on the Boerse was firm, with prices only slightly below the day's tops.

CAR LOADINGS DOWN 2,217

WASHINGTON, May 31 — (AP.) — Revenue freight loadings for the week ending May 21 were announced today by the American Railway Association as totaling 515,450 cars.

This was a decrease of 2,217 cars below the preceding week and 239,288 below the corresponding week in 1931.

Philadelphia Area Retail Trade Gains

PHILADELPHIA, May 31 — (AP.) — The monthly report of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia states general business activity in this district declined since the middle of last month, reflecting partly the usual tendency characteristic of this season."

LOCAL MARKET OPENS WEEK QUIETLY

Narrow Irregular Price Movements Noted Here; Trading Volume Light

Trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange quieted down as the new week opened following the prolonged week-end holiday. The active opening on the "big board" had practically no influence on the dealings here. Prices held to a narrow range and business was confined to a few scattered odd-lot trades in recently active issues.

The heavier volume on the New York exchange caused a little uneasiness in trading circles and tended to retard activity here. Developments over the week-end complicated the market outlook somewhat, especially the fall of the Bruening cabinet in Germany and the further snarl in Congress over the sales tax. Many new lows were established, but considerable encouragement was provided by the manner in which the selling was absorbed.

MARKET SURVEY AIDED BY U. S.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Pennsylvania is one of 19 states whose Chambers of Commerce and other commercial groups are now co-operating with the Department of Commerce in a recently instituted plan to make more generally available the newest facts developed by practical merchandising research, according to John Matthews, Jr., assistant director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. He said:

"Indicative of the rapidly growing and widespread demand by businessmen for basic marketing information, 114 important Chambers of Commerce in 19 states are enjoying a co-operative program worked out between the Commerce Department, the National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries, and the United States Chamber of Commerce.

"The purpose of the program is to enable commercial groups to equip themselves with an established marketing information service for the benefit of individual merchants, manufacturers and business concerns.

"The extent of the growing demand for adequate marketing information is evidenced by the fact that the Commerce Department extended over half a million such services on direct request during 1930, and nearly three-quarters of a million in 1931."

Lumber Orders in Excess of Output

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Despite rigorously curtailed current production, lumber orders received at the mills during the week ended May 21 exceeded the cut by but 1 per cent, it is indicated in telegraphic reports to the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association from regional manufacturers' associations covering the operations of 660 leading hardwood and softwood mills. Production of these mills amounted to 127,030,000 feet and new business called for 127,932,000 feet. Shipments, 130,266,000 feet, exceeded the cut by but 3 per cent.

Colt Expects Solution If Murder Reconstruction Proves Accurate

CHAPTER XLVI

It was a glib story. But then, Vincent Rowland was a glib personality. Everything about him had a polished ring of insincerity. In my own mind I could not decide whether to believe his explanation or not. Nor could I tell how his account had registered with Thatcher Colt. For the Police Commissioner began a machine gun fire of cross-examination that took the attorney completely by surprise. He had not suspected Colt's mastery of the deadly art of inquisition.

Had Rowland known anything about scorpions? Had he any fear of Dr. Baldwin? Did he know a man by the name of Ricardo Villafranca?

"Why were you late in starting out last night?"

"Late?"

"Yes! Christine and Guy Everett went to the Lion's Paw. Originally you planned to go with them. You told us that at the Mayfair. Why didn't you all go together?"

"I don't know—"

"Don't quibble. You had that quarrel here. Chung told us that. What were you quarreling about?"

HAD MOTIVE TO KILL

Vincent Rowland shrugged his shoulders.

"I have told you that. I warned her that she was going to get herself in trouble. As a matter of fact" and here the old attorney cleared his throat as if resolved to tell the truth and shame the devil "she made demands on me for a large loan. I knew it was blackmail, and I resented it as such."

"That makes it look worse," cried Dougherty.

"I had every motive in the world to kill Lola," agreed Vincent Rowland placidly. "But I didn't do it. I had no motive to kill the others. And I didn't do that, either."

"We are not proceeding as directly as I intended, but we are obtaining facts, nevertheless," observed Thatcher Colt, with a faint smile on his tanned face. "There remains the reconstruction of Lola's murder. If we can do that accurately, I think the case can be definitely solved. I mean by that we shall be able to prove conclusively the guilt of the killer."

Here his eyes traveled slowly from Guy Everett back to Vincent Rowland.

"You two gentlemen," he said, "have acknowledged that circumstances point suspicions at you. Yet you both very properly insist that we complete our case before accusing you."

"Then what is our case?"

LETTER OF WARNING

"We are all familiar with what happened outwardly last night. The District Attorney reached here last night in company with the police. Although we did not know it, Christine Quires was already dead and suspended from a flagpole support outside Lola's window. None of us could have known that. Where meanwhile was her assassin?

"Remember, gentlemen, that her assassin was still near the scene, ready to strike again.

"And curiously, a letter had been written warning of that impending stroke.

"The reason for the writing of that letter is one of the main clues in this case. At no time has that ever been out of my mind. The same is true of the killing of the dog and the parrot. If there was no logical reason for those things, if they were caprices of the killer, nevertheless they were important because they betrayed a psychological condition. If we understand that condition, we shall then be that much nearer to the guilty one. The reasons for the deaths of the dog and parrot are simple enough—the murderer was experimenting with the scorpions to be sure they could kill.

But what reason could there be for the note of warning?

It must be found in the twisted brain of the killer. It betokened a motive that was deeper and darker than mere expediency. It meant malice, the desire to inflict suffering, fever, torment, horror, and a vast egotism that is a concomitant of such hatred, an egotism that will despise safety itself. Therefore I felt from the beginning we were dealing with a crime of revenge.

The doorbell rang. At the sound of it Thatcher Colt's face lighted up. It was as if all this time he had been playing for time, waiting for the coming of an important messenger.

It was indeed a messenger from Police Headquarters, none other than Capt. Israel Henry, the silver-haired guardian of the Commissioner's private suite. The sight of Capt. Henry gave me a premonitory thrill. If the papers in the officer's hand were so important that only he could be entrusted with them, Thatcher Colt must indeed have a surprise up his sleeve.

In the gravest silence, Thatcher Colt received the envelope and broke the seal. Several papers, including two rumpled cablegrams and a photomore, a telephoto—were found inside. We all had to wait while Thatcher Colt read them through not once but three times. "Thank you, Henry," he said at last. The police officer was about to leave when Colt's suddenly lifted glance stayed him. "And now, Henry, will you go into that room there, please, and bring me the only framed photograph in the room. It is on the dresser."

Colt was pointing to the boudoir of Lola Carewe. That picture again, which Colt had returned by messenger, the picture of Basil Boucher. Had M. Dupont sent us more facts about that unhappy young man? And even so, what possible connection could there be between that mildewed old love affair 3,000 miles away and these New Year deaths in New York City? I could not understand Colt's obsession with that photograph, with the whole, manifestly irrelevant matter of Basil Boucher. The young Parisian bank clerk was dead. Dead years ago! Then why? The next moment I reproached myself.

Synopsis

Lola Carewe and Christine Quires are mysteriously murdered in the former's apartment. Scorpions were the instruments of death. The police suspect Guy Everett, an actor. Lola had blackmailed him. Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt learns that a young Paris bank clerk, named Basil Boucher, loved Lola. Edward Quires, Christine's brother, left his Rochester home for New York following the receipt of a telegram the day of the murders. Suspicion also points to Dr. Hugh Baldwin when it is disclosed that he purchased scorpions. Colt, calling to question Baldwin, finds him dead—from a scorpion bite. In Baldwin's desk Colt finds a statement in which the doctor says he accidentally poisoned Gaylord Gifford. Lola's husband. Lola's knowledge of this placed Baldwin in her power. She forced him to supply narcotics which she used to victimize her friends and later blackmail them. The statement says Vincent Rowland, aged attorney, was behind Lola's activities. Because of the lack of evidence against Rowland, Colt objects to his immediate arrest. A report from France says that Basil Boucher drowned himself after stealing money to buy Lola a ruby. Christine's brother, Edgar Quires, unaware of her death, is indignant when taken before Colt. After learning of the tragedy he accuses Everett. Colt calls all concerned to the Carewe home, where a physical reconstruction of the case is begun. He solves the mystery of where Christine's body was hidden. It was suspended on a flagpole holder outside a window.

Veritzen Makes Embarrassed Exit After Scene

In the silence that followed Philip Veritzen's proposal that when our present play had been put in production I should try a melodrama based upon the attempts of the Chinese to get possession of Marion's lockbox, I went over again the puzzling question which had come to me at his proposal. Was he in earnest or was he jesting?

But, no matter what his intent, there was one thing of which I was certain. He was waiting for an answer and I could not longer delay it.

I think," I said demurely, "that I shall be very glad to accept any dramatic commission which you are good enough to give me, provided it does not entail the impossible in time schedules."

A mirthful glint showed in his eyes, and a smile quirked the corners of his mouth.

"Your pound of flesh, Shylockia," he gibed. "However, that shall not stand between us when I get ready to offer you the commission. But that is a matter of the future. Just now I am only concerned in offering you my apology for pressing this matter of entertaining Mrs. Arlen and her daughter. I did not dream you were so tremendously upset here. I can see, too, why you so strenuously objected to coming into the city on Tuesday. Pray think no more about either request of mine. You have enough on your brain and heart just now to furnish three women with anxiety. Will you forgive me?"

"There is no possible question of forgiveness," I said, delighted to get off so easily. "I am so glad that you understand. I would not have you think that I am lacking in appreciation for the many kindnesses you have shown me."

HUSBAND APPEARS

"I am afraid your uncanny memory is failing you," he said, smiling. "For I do not recall any instances of signal kindness to you. However, all this is beside the point. My one concern now is that you shall not worry over anything. Put all thought of the play away until the time which you, yourself, have scheduled for commencing your work upon it. And as for Mrs. Arlen and her daughter—"

I put up my hand in protesting interruption.

"Please believe," I said quickly, "that the first moment I have free, I shall love to have you all at dinner."

"And we shall love to accept your invitation—when you are at liberty to give it," he said. Then he rose and coming over to me, bent in courtly fashion before me and raised my hand to his lips.

"Let me know when you are free from what shall we say all your incubi?" he smiled widely, and I rose and walked toward the door with him.

"I shall write or telephone you the exact date when I can go into the city, also. I shall consult you about a dinner for Mrs. Arlen, both of these the first moment I know what I can do," I promised, and he raised my hand again to his lips just as Dicky came out of the door of the library.

And then, to my amazement, Philip Veritzen dropped my hand as if it had been something which had inadvertently burned him.

ACTS LIKE SCHOOLBOY

"Ah! Graham!" He was actually stammering like a schoolboy detected in a breach of discipline. "I was just thanking Mrs. Graham for clearing up a misunderstanding concerning something upon which I had misjudged her. And now," turning to me, "permit me to thank you again. Au revoir!"

He bowed to me, nodded to Dicky, and got himself out of the door in distinctly hurried fashion. I looked after him first aghast and then angered for this was exactly the behavior of a man unused to any sort of emergency, social or otherwise, and who was betraying distinct embarrassment at being discovered by a jealous husband in kissing the hand of his wife. Yet all of his intimates knew that if Philip Veritzen were discovered just after he had killed a person he would—was not the slightest perturbation, and would in all probability wipe the dagger and present it, hilt foremost, to the man who had interrupted him. He prides himself on his perfect poise, and I knew that he must have deliberately staged that embarrassment, consummate actor that he is, for Dicky's benefit.

As the door closed after him, I glanced apprehensively at Dicky. What would be his reaction to this Puckish performance?

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

At all of the Warner neighborhood theaters Friday night, including the 17 where the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club meet, tryouts for the big show "Pittsburgh On Parade" to be given at the Stanley later on June 10, were held.

From each of the theaters there was picked one juvenile and one adult which will appear in this revue. The majority of juvenile winners are youngsters who have entertained the boys and girl members of the club. In fact most of them are members of this club.

At the Enright Theater two very clever little girls, "Elaine and Jean," were judged the best of the juvenile talent. These two youngsters, composing a song and dance team, really stopped the show.

Baby Kitty Lou, 4, sang her way right into the hearts of the judges and the audience at the Cameraphone Theater, while Henry "Tiny" La Peet, 13, tapped out an acrobatic dance to win first place at the Belmar. Turtle Creek will have the honor of sending little Eleanor Barno, five-year-old acrobatic dancer, into "Pittsburgh On Parade" and she will represent the Rowland Theater, (Wilkinsburg).

At the regular meetings Saturday, one boy or girl from each chapter was chosen by the manager to act as the "Official Junior Komic Club Reporter." It will be the duty of these youngsters to furnish the managers of their theaters with bits of interesting news about other members. This news will appear in this column from time to time. Some of the youngsters who were appointed are: Julius Pace, Kenyon; Ann Helfgott, Enright; Edward Riffle, Cameraphone. A complete list of "Official Reporters" will appear in this column tomorrow.

More Work for Park

Expenditure of Public Funds on Private Homes Calls For Action by the Grand Jury.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park, who has done such a good job in the prosecution of city officials for malfeasance in office and machine politicians for election frauds, is given another task in the exposures that the present Board of County Commissioners is making of misconduct of officials in the preceding regime.

The extravagant expenditure of the taxpayers' money for truck hire at exorbitant rates was bad enough. The recent revelation that many thousands of gallons of gasoline bought by the county for official business were used in joy rides was shameful. And the climax is capped by the latest testimony, that county employes were put to work and county supplies used in making improvements at the private homes of county officials.

The charges clearly call for a grand jury investigation.

Should Spur Borrowing

The Young Committee's Duty Is to Encourage the Use Of Loanable Funds for Business Purposes.

The second phase of the campaign to relieve harassed business of the handicap of a credit strain has been reached.

After the Federal Reserve system has for weeks aggressively pumped out additional funds by means of purchasing government obligations in the open market, a super board of strategy, in New York, headed by Owen D. Young and 11 other leaders of finance and industry, has been organized to encourage the use of the new potential supply of loanable funds for sound business purposes.

Up to this time, the practical effect of the Federal Reserve maneuver has been offset by the disposition of member banks to use the credit thus released to pay off their debts at the central regional banks. Banks in the East have gone as far as they can in this direction, and in other sections member banks are fast reducing their indebtedness.

The stronger banks are at a juncture where they must choose between piling up additional, profitless excess reserves, on the one hand, and making sound, income producing loans and investments, on the other.

Obviously, the new Young committee is designed to create an authoritative financial opinion in favor of conscious reflation, or counter deflation, which entails an expansion of loans and investments of member banks, which have shrunk drastically in the last nine months.

For a time the rate of such decline was so rapid that it became a serious aggravating cause of continuing shrinkages in trade volume and in employment.

In appointing six industrialists and six bankers to consider means of putting idle dollars to work to make jobs for idle hands, George L. Harrison, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, evidently wanted to stop the superficial opposition by doctrinaire purists and by timid bankers against legitimate, necessary, controlled credit expansion.

This new stage-setting should help to emphasize that bankers, who continue in a mad race for liquidity, are deserting the ship in a storm, and are accelerating the spiral of declining business.

The new body should make it clear to money lenders everywhere that they should stop the anti-social practice of further contracting the circulating medium, which consists mainly of bank credit, at a time when industry and commerce are already overliquidated.

It now becomes the patriotic duty of business enterprises, enjoying a good rating, to make use of such credit as they can for sound, useful constructive, job-giving purposes.

As a stimulant to private business, the federal government should take advantage of the approaching credit easement to float a bond issue for acceleration of public works and re-employment of the idle.

Evidence is accumulating that management in the large is at length getting ready to take the fundamental steps needed for genuine economic recovery in the United States.

Everyone a Salesman!

Vice President Tritle, of Westinghouse Electric, Has a Good Idea for Stimulating Business.

J. S. Tritle, vice president and general manager of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, has a good idea for stimulating business.

He suggests that all wage earners become "sales conscious" and take advantage of every opportunity to sell the products of their employers. If clerks and bookkeepers and stenographers, janitors, mechanics and laborers—all the employes of a company and not its sales forces alone—were to make an effort to increase its sales, Mr. Tritle says, the effect would be beneficial to all business.

The Westinghouse employes have tried the plan, and it works. They engaged in an "industrial merchandising campaign" last month and added about $1,000,000 to the company's business. The money flowed back into trade through the purchase by the Westinghouse company of steel, copper and other materials.

If the employes of every company were to follow the same plan and keep it up, there would be a noticeable increase in local business activity.

Everyone a salesman!

How City Expenses Rose

The Controller's Annual Report Indicates There Is Plenty of Room for Cutting.

In connection with the demand of business and trade associations that the municipal government cut expenses the annual report of the City Controller can be studied to advantage.

The Controller presents an array of figures showing how municipal expenses have mounted in recent years.

He states, for example, that in 1908 the current expense of administering the city government, plus the payment of interest and sinking fund charges on the municipal debt, amounted to $24.18 each for every man, woman and child in Pittsburgh. Last year it was $49.56.

These figures suggest that plenty of room remains for trimming expenses.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 31.—The mail coach clatter of the Roaring Forties has a rubber-tired hush—an eerie nuance—between 6 and 7 in the evening. It's the twilight hour when the customary callosity softens and defense mechanism, set up by those living hard and dangerously, is dropped. The White Way becomes "folksey."

Four-flushers shed their monocle manners. Confidence men are no longer counts. Kreugers or other big money guys. At this period the Tenderloin shifts down to "regulars," at theater time the picture shifts into high again. Lips tighten. Talk brittles into monosyllabic clip.

The other evening in a free and easy auberge, a group of trans-Atlantic gamblers—"ocean greyhounds"—were ragging each other. This has been the toughest of all seasons for them. Slim passenger lists coupled with thin purses make pickings scarce.

They addressed one another by underworld monikers such as Gentleman Mac, The Flash and Boston Bart. Anecdotes were swapped of boob trimming on the high seas, of brushes with Scotland Yard and the Paris Prefecture. It was like collegiates recalling campus capers.

Ladies of the mob, too, lose their worldly veneer and conversation has a quick uptake. They talk of their men, of their beatings and of the polite pilfering among easy marks. Gambling house touts, brothel runners, dice game tip-off men and all the sundry flotsam are equally garrulous.

Their shady trickeries are, in the eyes of comrades, achievements. Crooks, off to themselves, express a childlike quality—the bland immaturity which in a large measure is responsible for the recklessness of their lawless adventures.

All he could jitter was "Gaitor!"

New York knows "Daddy" Browning these days only through a huge block-long sign glowing in tri-colored succession across his real estate offices a hop-skip from Columbus Circle. The ex-hero of the tabloids, now white-haired, is rarely seen among haunts that knew him so well—dance halls, theaters and cafes. He was for a time the best copy among a sensational press, but he has either become tired of headlines or is thinking up a new idea. Many regard him as a bit cracked, yet he has an amazingly trigger mind. For years he lived unostentatiously at a family hotel in West Seventy-second street. Then all of a sudden burst forth in a series of marital exploits, splashing first pages. Flooded with suits, he has won almost all, and shrewd lawyers say these victories are attributable largely to his grasp of the law.

Also I never hear mention of Jouett Shouse without thinking of a howling dog being thrown into the creek. But the most expressive of all was a bronzed dancing man at the Midnight Frolic, years ago. LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

The world's in a mess.

How did it get that way?

Not just because the stock market crashed. It began before that.

Not just because we had a war. It began before that.

Even if we'd had no market crash, no war, we'd have gotten into this jam. Why?

BECAUSE OUR PROGRESS IS LOP SIDED.

Fifty million, more or less, years ago man was a stupid creature, living in groups, like wolf packs, with no more social organization or scientific knowledge than wolves. He had no laws except the pack rules; no tools except fist and tooth.

Then, slowly, man began to arm himself, train himself to fight against other brutes, to rule the jungle and shape a society of his own.

So civilization began, very feebly at first, not gaining much momentum for many, many centuries.

Then, all at once, everything speeded up amazingly. Science began to take a hand. Science invented machines, equipped laboratories, started factories. Suddenly life became infinitely more complicated and dangerous, and at the same time more free and easy.

Where once man had only his two hands, a bow and arrow, a clumsy spade and an equally clumsy pen, wherewith to meet the world, he now had thousands of tools, hundreds of new forms of energy.

Sit down. Take a paper. Ask some old person to join you. Then try to list all the inventions that have come, the discoveries that have been made, in the last hundred years. You'll be surprised.

Suppose you take a little 10-year-old child, who had always played with toys in his father's yard, far from the city, knowing nothing but that quiet ranch life, then suddenly sweep away everything that child has known, all the old faces, all the old ideas, all the familiar customs. Drop him down in the midst of the city's bedlam. Give him every form of dangerous machine. Release him from discipline and drudgery. Tell him that everything his father did or had or feared or desired was baloney. Tell him he can have what he pleases, do what he pleases—go to it!

What will happen to that child?

HE WILL GO HAYWIRE.

And that is exactly what has happened to the human race. The human race has gone haywire. Science has given us too much power, too much speed, too much opportunity, too much freedom, too much pleasure, too much ease, too much competition, before we were ready for it.

Science has developed and complicated the physical side of life until it has become as fantastic and miraculous as an Arabian Night's dream.

BUT WE ARE STILL MENTALLY AND MORALLY UNDEVELOPED.

Our mechanical progress is two million years ahead of our mental progress.

OUR HANDS PULL LEVERS, BUT OUR HEADS AND OUR HEARTS DON'T KNOW WHAT IT'S ALL ABOUT.

Now we're forced to stop a while, or we'll smash ourselves to smithereens. We're forced to catch our breath. Learn how to use time, how to use power, wealth, human energy. Learn how to use ourselves.

What has happened? That's what has happened. Not a market crash or a war. Something infinitely bigger and more significant than any market crash or any war. A jerk in the human cycle. A smash and a slowup. We've come too fast, too far. NOW WE MUST CATCH UP WITH OURSELVES.

There's a little book about it. Great stuff. William McDougall, famous British psychologist, wrote it. Buy it. Read it. Think about it. Talk about it. Are you bewildered, angry, bursting with bitter questions? That book will answer every one of them.

Watch the Pacific

Japanese Activities Point to Need of Military Commission Government in Hawaii.

By GEN. WILLIAM MITCHELL

Former Commander, Air Forces, A. E. F., and Director, Military Aeronautics, U. S. Army.

THE recent assasinations in Japan must make it apparent to even the most superficial American observer that the Japanese Nationalists, or military party, as they are called, will brook no interference in their object of establishing themselves firmly on the continent of Asia, with a view to developing its resources for their own benefit.

Ever since Japan became industrialized, many of her people have become imbued with socialistic and communistic doctrines. These have been assiduously cultivated by propaganda from Soviet Russia.

Japan went through much the same condition many centuries ago, at which time her military chiefs, organized under the name of the Shogunate, seized the reins of power and held them, up to the middle of the last century.

This the present military clique in Japan is attempting to do again. As the military chiefs have the Japanese army, navy and air force behind them, they have the physical power to carry into effect whatever they desire. This means to us Americans that we must watch our state of military preparedness at home and the holding of our outlying possessions in the Pacific.

Japanese propaganda has been very active in Hawaii. A great deal of the unrest in that territory is directly traceable to that source. It is high time that the United States cease to allow the Asiatic majority of people in the Hawaiian Islands to control matters in that important American military outpost in the Pacific.

THE civil administration there has proved itself to be incompetent to handle the inhabitants. In case of a war of aggression by Japan against us, the Japanese population in Hawaii would surely side with Japan. Under present conceptions where they are allowed to do practically anything they please, it would be a serious menace.

Hawaii should be governed by a military commission. It is essentially a fortress. The franchise should be taken away from the people of Asiatic blood and they should be allowed to remain there only during the term of their good behavior.

Hawaii has seven inhabited islands and a group of small islets and reefs which reach directly toward Japan for a distance of 1,200 miles to Midway Island. Midway is about the same distance from Tokio that Honolulu is from San Francisco, some 2,000 miles. For a modern airplane this is about 10 hours' flying time.

The distance to the Aleutian Islands, Alaska, from Midway is about 1,300 miles, or six and a half hours' flight.

The defense of Alaska and Hawaii must be provided for equally because in case we were attacked in the Pacific and these possessions fell into the hands of an enemy, it would enable them to make a direct attack on our large cities with air power.

When Japan goes to war, she gives no warning of an attack. She jumps on her adversary when he is at the greatest disadvantage and is entirely ruthless in her methods. She gave no warning to the Chinese in 1894, nor when she attacked Russia at Port Arthur in 1905, nor when she attacked Korea, nor recently when she pounced on Manchuria.

The best insurance against such a possibility in the future is to provide for a sensible modernized national defense. It will cost no more than we are spending on it at present.

INNER PINCHES

By Winifred Black

"Yes," said the man at the garage, "you've got a puncture in that rear tire; not much of a one, but just enough to give it a slow leak. I haven't opened it up yet, but I'm willing to bet that there's an inside pinch somewhere. I don't see anything on the surface."

So we sat in the car and waited, while the man at the garage took off the tire and fussed around with it. It wasn't long before he stepped to the car with the tire in his hand.

"Just as I thought," he said. "It was an inner pinch. Somebody put the inside flap in wrong, and that made the trouble."

"Inside flap?" echoed the man at the wheel. "What in hallelujah is an inside flap? I never heard of it before."

"Uh, huh," said the man at the garage. "Lots of folks ain't never heard of the inside flap, but it's there just the same, and when there's a crease in it, or it isn't put in just right, it'll pinch the inner tube as sure as eggs are eggs."

"Want a new inner flap? It'll cost you about 60 cents extra. I'd have one if I was in your place."

"Sure," said the man at the wheel.

So we sat in the car and waited while the garage man put a new inner flap into the tire, and the first thing we knew the tire was on, the garage man put his money in his pocket and waved us a cheerful goodbye, and down the highway we went, talking about garages, and tires, and punctures, and inner tubes, and finally about inner pinches and flaps.

I feel very wise and technical now whenever I think of that flap and the inner pinch. It's nice to know something that very few people besides the garage man know. It makes you feel so superior.

And, besides, it has set me to thinking—that "inner pinch" business.

I wonder if that's what's the matter with Cousin John?

Cousin John is a man in his forties. He has a fairly good business for these days; a pleasant home; rather goodish health, taking it by and large, with nothing but a toothache, or a little spell of laryngitis, to make him even realize that there is such a thing as a doctor in the world. Yes, taking it all around, Cousin John ought to be a happy man.

Is Cousin John a happy man? Dear, dear, what a question! You'd never ask it if you'd ever had one glimpse of Cousin John—even one single, fleeting glimpse.

Cousin John is a Republican, and he thinks all Democrats should be shot at sunrise. He is a Presbyterian, and he thinks all members of other denominations are poor, mistaken fools, who will find out how wrong they've been some day, and be sorry for it.

Cousin John eats sausage, wheat cakes, ham and eggs, breakfast food and hot biscuits, and drinks three cups of coffee every single morning of his life.

He thinks any man who takes nothing but a grapfruit—or maybe an orange—and a cup of coffee and a piece of toast for breakfast, is just nothing but a sissy. And that's that!

Cousin John hates airships, and radios, and moving pictures, and everything that has been invented since he was 20 years old.

Cousin John's wife says John is all right, only he's "so conservative."

I think Cousin John has some kind of an "inner pinch." I do wish someone would find out what it is, and how he got it, and invent some way of taking it out of him.

Wouldn't that be fine—for his wife, and his son, and his little girls, and his business partner, and the clerks in the office, and everybody who has anything to do with Cousin John?
